How the News Runs.
Usual Riots In India.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

A DAY in June does not compare with directors' meeting day for stockholders in Standard Oil of Indiana.

Mr. Rockefeller is fighting to expel Col. Stewart and Col. Stewart is fighting to continue bossing S. O. of Ind.

IMAGINE the emotions of stockholders told that they are to receive a 50 per cent stock dividend without money and without price, also without income tax, plus higher dividends.

FOUR million six hundred and twenty-five thousand shares of perfectly good Standard Oil of Indiana stock, worth at present market prices $444,000,000. That's a good deal to give away at a directors' meeting.

THIS liberality is expected to help Col. Stewart's hunt for proxies. Mr. Rockefeller may tell stockholders it is easy enough to hand out stock, less easy to pay dividends on it, especially if the company should be cut off from the other little Standard Oil octopuses.

ENTHUSIASTS were trying to buy Standard Oil of Indiana 70,000 shares at a time yesterday. Speculators said to themselves, "If Standard of Indiana can do it, why not other Standard Oil companies?" So others went up in price.

THE price of copper metal went to 17½ cents yesterday. Higher prices are expected in the Anaconda Copper laboratories. John D. Ryan's experiments have produced thin copper at low cost for building purposes. In the long run, more copper will be used in building than for any other purpose.

CAPT. HAWKS, able flier from Houston, Tex., leaving Los Angeles Monday morning, got out on the edge of the Atlantic yesterday afternoon, spoke over the radio last night, having broken all records flying across the continent in 18 hours 21 minutes 59 seconds. Except for bad weather he would have landed two hours sooner.

THAT interests you, who will cross the continent in nine hours before long, and it interests railroad men, among whom the wise will imitate Gen. Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania, and take up flying without waiting, not imitating old stage coach owners who decided that "locomotives will never amount to much," and went to sleep.

THE news of today runs in this fashion: Henry Ford, who yesterday rolled out his new Model A car No. 1,000,000, is producing 6,000 cars a day in Detroit, employing in his plant 135,000 men.

EAMON DE VALERA, who insists that Ireland should be a republic, free of all British strings, is arrested trying to enter Ulster. The word "republic" is not popular in the north of Ireland.

PRIMO DE RIVERA, the Spanish dictator, says the upheaval in Spain amounts to nothing. The Spanish newspapers are muzzled, which indicates some trouble.

COL. BURY, assistant secretary for mines, said 2,000 miners needed in South Wales could not be obtained. Laborite members shouted "liar."

That fashion was set by Tim Healy and other Irishmen in Gladstone's time.

J PIERPONT MORGAN gives a New York hospital two buildings worth $2,000,000. Giving seems to be inherited, as illustrated also in the case of the Rockefellers.

Mr. Morgan's father gave to New York one of its finest institutions, a great lying-in hospital.

SERIOUS rioting in India was caused by a report that Mohammedans kidnaped Hindu children and sacrificed them in connection with the construction of a new bridge. The report probably is not true.

ONCE important works were usually accompanied by human sacrifices. Somebody was killed and buried under the corner of a new building. A child or adult was often killed and buried in a shallow hole in a field newly planted. Knowing nothing about fertilizers they observed with "religious awe" that the grass grew greener where the corpse was buried.

MME. BELLA POLLACK died yesterday in Rumania, aged 118, leaving 21 children, the oldest 85, and a fiance who would have been her third husband. Mme. Pollack ate two and one-half pounds of black bread and a pound of sugar every day and was never ill until her last illness.

MEN often live long when the doctor tells them that they will soon die. A warning makes them careful. James Melrose, twice lord mayor of York, England, is dead, aged 100. Insurance companies refused him as a bad risk 70 years ago.

The famous Luigi Cornaro became interested in his health when doctors told him at 40 that he must soon die. He ate only 12 ounces of solid food, drank 15 ounces of red wine daily, died at 104.

CROWD SURROUNDING RECORD-BREAKING PLANE AT LANDING

DAVID, Panama, Feb. 6.—(INS).—After a brief stop here to refuel his plane, Col. Lindbergh hopped off at 1:40 p. m.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica., Feb. 6.—En route to Panama on the last lap of the inaugural air mail flight from Miami, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed at Punta Arenas at 8:10 a. m. today—9:10 a. m. Pittsburgh time. One hour and 20 minutes later he hopped off for David, Panama.

From David he will head for Panama City, his last landing place before Cristobal, the canal zone terminal of the new mail route. He expected to arrive there late this afternoon.

653-MILE JOURNEY

His route was over low tropic coasts, high isthmian mountains, and, finally, along the canal to Cristobal.

Six hundred and fifty-three air miles with three intermediate stops were included, 194 from Managua to Punta Arenas, Costa Rica; 204 from Punta Arenas to David, Panama; 129 from David to Panama City, and 126 across the isthmus to Cristobal.

Beyond David airplanes are not so much an oddity, and in the Canal Zone area flying is common enough, with no really difficult conditions presenting themselves.

SENTENCED AS U.S. TAX DODGER

A parade of alleged income tax evaders appeared imminent in Federal Court this afternoon as the third defendant in three days pleaded no defense to defrauding the government.

Otto Heck, wholesale beverage dealer, of North avenue, Millvale, pleaded no defense before Judge W. H. S. Thomson to failing to make complete tax returns and evasion of taxes amounting to more than $7,000 for the years 1924 to 1927, inclusive.

GIVEN $500 FINE

Heck was fined $500 by Judge W. H. S. Thomson. Assistant United States Attorney Ralph H. Smith explained that there were extenuating circumstances in Heck's case and that he had an appeal pending before the income tax appeal board regarding taxes alleged due the government.

Attorneys Meyer Sniderman and Jacob Frank, in behalf of Heck, told the court that bank deposits made by Heck did not represent profits as he had made a practice of cashng pay checks of railroad employes.

E. Joseph D'Angelo, of the North Side, was scheduled to appear in court late today for sentence. He signed a no defense plea yesterday to evasion of income tax payments.

ORIE TRIALS DELAYED

Martin J. Grady, revealed in testimony as a gambling business partner of Police Magistrate John W. Orie, was found guilty of tax evasions yesterday.

Magistrate Orie and his brother, Stanley, were listed for trial today for alleged tax dodging, but the case was postponed because of illness of Judge Nelson McVicar and Attorney A. M. Oliver, for the defense.

Milton Meyers, reputed South Side bootleg baron, pleaded guilty Monday to defrauding the government out of income tax and was sentenced to serve three months in jail.

It was at Greenley Island the Baron's plane, the Bremen, was forced down after the trans-Atlantic flight.

MOTORIST HURT IN WRECK

One man was injured, two automobiles wrecked and 15 passengers on a street car shaken and startled when the car and two automobiles collided in Shady avenue, near Walnut street, today.

Samuel B. Weller, 55, 1364 Denniston avenue, is in Pittsburgh Hospital with severe lacerations of the face and nose from being thrown through a windshield.

SKIDS ON TRACKS

Weller, riding with his chauffeur, Albert A. Messmer, was going north in Shady avenue, when the machine skidded on the car tracks. Efforts of Messmer to straighten out his wheel failed and the automobile crashed into the front end of a southbound one-man car operated by S. G. Bingman.

SECOND CAR HITS

Almost at the same time, an automobile driven by G. W. Cowan, 45, 5771 Solway street, hit the street car. Cowan, driving behind Weller, swung to the left trying to avoid a rear-end collision when the Weller car started skidding.

The impact of the auto hitting the street car started a rush of passengers for the doors. Bingman succeeded in quieting them. Cowan and Messmer were arrested charged with reckless driving.

DEATH OF RICH WIDOW HOLDS NEW PUZZLE

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—(INS.)—Investigation of the mysterious death of Mrs. Selma Burnham, wealthy widow of a slot machine magnate, took a striking turn today when a woman employed at the Burnham home was held for further questioning after she told of a midnight intruder who had threatened Mrs. Burnham.

The woman, held at the state's attorney's office, is Mrs. Mary Doran. No charges are contemplated against her. She is regarded merely as a highly important witness.

HEARD QUARREL

She was detained after she had told of a man forcing his way into the Burnham apartment on the night of January 21. This man, she said, brushed her aside and entered Mrs. Burnham's bedroom. They quarreled violently and the man threatened her when she refused to sign certain papers, Mrs. Doran said.

"When Mrs. Burnham finally refused to sign the papers," Mrs. Doran continued, "the intruder threatened to go to the authorities and relate circumstances regarding the death of Mrs. Burnham's husband."

SPEAKS OF MURDER

Some time later, according to Mrs. Doran, the widow came from

Grubb, who flew from Los Angeles to New York in the record-breaking time of 18 hours, 21 minutes and 59 seconds, were officially congratulated this afternoon by Acting Mayor Joseph E. McKee.

Hawks told International News Service he planned no return flight.

Grubb said he was eager to get back home—Los Angeles.

"Do you know," remarked Grubb, "this was the first time I have ever been out of the state of California. I was born in Los Angeles and I never before left the state."

BARE SHORTAGE IN BROWN TRIAL

BULLETIN.

Guy Brown, former State Senator and banker, set up the fictitious United Coal Mining Company to cover up his own operations in the Fayette City National Bank, Government Counsel James I. Marsh charged in court after the court had refused to allow in evidence a $20,000 check made out by the coal company.

A shortage of $5,800 existed four days in the account of Guy W. Brown with the Fayette City National Bank, according to testimony today in Federal Court, where Brown, former state senator and banker, is being tried on a charge of embezzlement of $132,000.

T. A. Donaldson, government investigator, testified that for four days in January, 1926, Brown over-

GIRL, 18, WINS $3,000,000 IN M'CARTHY WILL FIGHT

GREENWICH, Conn., Feb. 6.—Efforts of pretty 18-year-old Peggy Gowen to prevent the bulk of her mother's estate—valued at close to $9,000,000—from going to Dr. James McCarthy, the mother's third husband, were crowned with success today.

Her legal battle over admission of the will of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Huntington Smith McCarthy, heiress to Standard Oil millions, brought a settlement when the case was called in probate court.

Under the terms of the protested will, Dr. McCarthy would have received virtually all of the estate with the exception of $200,000 bequeath to Miss Gowan. He now is to receive 55 per cent, or nearly $5,000,000.

The settlement provides the girl shall receive 30½ per cent of the estate, or almost $3,000,000.

Western Reserve University, of Cleveland, named in a previous will as a beneficiary of Mrs. McCarthy, was a joint party in Miss Gowen's suit.

The university will receive 14½ per cent of the $9,000,000 in the settlement.

Former Judge W. L. Tierney, an executor of the estate, previously had charged that the efforts to break the will were being made in an effort to aid Col. Robert W. Stewart's fight for proxies in the battle he is waging against John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for control of the Standard Oil of Indiana.

There is, Tierney said, a heavy block of this stock included in the McCarthy fortune.

Attorneys for Miss Gowan, however, today said she and Western Reserve were entirely in sympathy with Rockefeller.

THIRD SEIZED IN TRAFFORD ROBBERY

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Eddie Motes, 24, of Fairmont, W. Va., alleged member of a gang which robbed the Trafford City National Bank of $13,000 last November 3, is under arrest here following his visit to the Westmoreland county jail in disguise to see Sam Succi, 22, and Frick Trader, 21, both of Monongah, W. Va., who were captured immediately following the robbery.

Motes, wearing glasses and a mustache, came from Fairmont by automobile yesterday with a brother and sister of Succi and a brother of Trader. Warden James M. Keaton recognized Motes and telephoned state police after he had admitted the four to the jail. Placed under arrest, police said he was found to be carrying a loaded revolver. He is charged with robbery and carrying concealed weapons.

Succi's brother and sister and Trader's brother also are being held, pending further investigation.

Attaches of the Trafford Bank came here last night and identified Motes as one of the robbers, police said.

lence was one from Princess Hermine, wife of the former Kaiser, and another from President von Hindenburg, of the German republic.

"Baron Von Huenefeld's name will live in the history of German aviation," said President Von Hindenburg's message.

Princess Hermine telegraphed to the baron's mother:

"Let me take your hands in deepest sympathy."

The body will lie in state in the little church at Suedende, a Berlin suburb, where the baron attended rices.

he baron was only 36 years old. was an ardent patriot, a loyal adherent of the imperial regime, and a close friend of the former crown prince.

Inspired by Col. Lindbergh's successful flight from New York to Paris, he determined that the first east-to-west flight should be made in a German plane.

After seeking financial backing for almost a year, he and Capt. Herman Koehl left Bremen in their plane and landed at Galway Bay, Ireland, to await favorable weather. There Maj. James E. Fitzmaurice was made the third member of the expedition.

After many delays the now famous trio finally started across the Atlantic on April 12, 1928. After bucking headwinds and heavy fogs for more than 30 hours, they finally sighted land at Greenley Island, off the coast of Labrador.

They made a forced landing and were marooned upon the island until "Duke" Schiller, piloting a Canadian Airways plane, made a spectacular flight to the isolated island and brought Fitzmaurice to Murray Bay, Quebec.

A tri-motored Ford plane piloted by the late Floyd Bennett and Bert Balchen, now in Antarctic regions with Commander Byrd's expedition, was sent to the aid of the marooned airmen. Bennett contracted pneumonia and died in Quebec before reaching his goal. Balchen rescued the fliers, but the Bremen was left behind.

Baron Von Huenefeld and his two companions were subsequently feted throughout the United States and Europe.

CURTIS' SISTER LOSES IN SENATE LADIES CLUB

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Mrs. George H. Moses, wife of the senator from New Hampshire, is the new president of the Senate Ladies' Luncheon Club, succeeding Mrs. Charles H. Dawes, wife of the vice president.

Her election yesterday untangled a situation that has interested Washington society for several weeks. It has been traditional for the wife of the vice president to preside over the ladies of the Senate, but Senator Curtis, the incoming vice president, is a widower.

However, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, his sister, will be his official hostess at home and one group in the club had contended that this entitled her to the presidency, while others insisted that the office should go only to the wives of vice presidents or senators.

Mrs. Gann, at the session, which was held behind closed doors and was attended by Mrs. Coolidge, was elected an honorary member of the club.

Mrs. Frederick N. Sackett, wife of the Senator from Kentucky, was re-elected secretary.

Mayor Charles H. Kline's ordinance creating jobs for three watchmen at $5 a day at the municipal garage, old Exposition Building, has been referred to a special committee of Council for an investigation.

It was said at the time that if the building were inclosed with a fence and capable watchmen employed there would be a stop to repeated thefts of valuable car accessories.

In sending the pending ordinance to a special committee, Council requested a report on the activities of the watchmen previously authorized.

ESCAPES FROM SUBMARINE ADVANCE MASTERY OF SEA

ABROARD THE U. S. S. MALLARD OFF KEY WEST, Fla., Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Man's mastery of the sea was a step nearer today as the result of successful tests conducted yesterday aboard the submarine S-4.

Three times men escaped from the submersible by means of safety devices from a depth of 40 feet of water.

Today these same devices were ready for other trials at varying depths in an effort to prove their perfection.

Three times yesterday Lieut. C. B. Monson and Chief Torpedo Man E. Kolonski staked their lives in the conquest of the sea and were victorious.

The S-4 was submerged with the men aboard. As the water began filling the compartments, Kolonski donned his "lung," which the new device is called, and when the submarine had reached the bottom, he cast off and soon appeared on the surface, none the worse for his experience. Then, before the compressed air chamber, in which Lieut. Monson waited, was filled, he, too, donned his "lung" and floated to the top. Their first escape was from a specially constructed hatch, but later they left from the motor room and the torpedo room.

Lieut. Monson developed the device jointly with Chief Gunner C. L. Tibbals and Civilian Engineer Frank Hobson.

If the later tests prove successful, Lieut. Commander P. H. Dunbar said, there will have been discovered a protection against a catastrophe such as befell the S-4 December 17, 1927, when 40 men lost their lives.

Commander J. B. Hupp, of the Mallard, sent down several air lines during yesterday's test to frighten away sharks.

FLAG CONTEST OPEN TO ALL CHILDREN

Just as the Flag of the United States stands for Liberty, Justice and Equality for all, so is the Flag Contest of the The United States Flag Association, sponsored by the Hearst Newspapers, open to boys and girls of America regardless of their race, creed or color.

Boys and girls from the humblest homes are just as eligible to compete for the most valuable award ever offered in any Contest—a free trip around the world—as are those whose lives have been surrounded by luxuries. Nor need they worry about clothes for the trip, because a luxurious travel wardrobe, including trunks and hand luggage, will be furnished free, as will ample spending money—$200—for the three month's cruise.

The only requirements are that contestants be between the ages of 14 and 18 on Flag Day, June 14, of this year, and that there be at least 25 Contestants in each Contest conducted by High Schools, or their equivalent in private and parochial schools, or patriotic or civic organizations. No expense is attached to the conducting of a Contest by a school or organization, since all supplies are furnished by the Hearst Newspapers.

75 QUESTIONS

The Contest, which consists of answering 75 questions about the Flag of the United States, and the things for which it stands, and writing an essay on "Old Glory's Greatest Glory," is the result of months of preparation on the part of Col. James A. Moss, president general of the United States Flag Association. Col. Moss, a graduate of West Point, now retired, serves the United States Flag Association without pay, and has devoted his life to the patriotic work which that organization has undertaken. He has even spent thousands of dollars of his own funds to carry on this work.

The association, which has as its avowed objective the inculcation of reverence and respect for Old Glory, has or has had on its official personnel prominent Americans of all creeds and political beliefs from widely-separated sections of the nation.

When Col. Moss began organizing the Flag Association, he realized that the spirit which the American Flag symbolizes took cognizance of neither race, religion or sectional borders. The board of founders of this unique organization was picked so as to epitomize this equality. To signify that political divisions did not exist, Charles Evans Hughes, once Republican candidate for president, and the late Thomas R. Marshall, former Democratic vice president of the United States, were named original members of the board. Representatives of various religious creeds also are on the board. There are Bishop James E. Freeman, of the Protestant Episcopal church; Cardinal O'Connell, senior Catholic prelate in the country, and Rabbi Abram Simon, presi-

"Where are you going?" Mrs. Doran said she inquired.

"I've got to leave this house," was her alleged reply.

"Why, isn't it yours?" the woman said she asked, to which she declared Mrs. Burnham replied:

"Yes, but I've got to leave. I'm afraid. He is telling everybody I killed my husband. I knew he'd tell someone."

Assistant State's Attorney Ayres declared that if Mrs. Doran's story is borne out under direct examination today, he will go before Coroner Herman N. Bundes with a demand for the exhumation of the wealthy slot machine man's body.

BARE SHORTAGE IN BROWN TRIAL

drew on the bank of which he was vice president until the shortage reached $5,800. He made up the deficit, Donaldson added, by depositing a $20,000 note made out by one Peter Zemo.

Donaldson testified that two periods in Brown's personal account with the Fayette bank covering a total of 17 months were missing from the records.

The charges against Brown followed the financial collapse of the Fayette bank and the First National Bank of Webster, Pa.

Another witness today was Mrs. Mary M. Driscoll, former secretary to Brown, who identified his signature on business papers.

Through F. M. Newcomer, chief clerk for the bankruptcy receiver, the government yesterday introduced records of the banks, deposit slips, notes made by Brown and other documentary evidence. Upon this groundwork the government proposes to show, according to Assistant District Attorney James I. Marsh, that Brown cashed checks to himself, as vice president of the Fayette City bank, for larger amounts than his account would cover. Marsh also promised to prove that Brown diverted worthless notes to his account to cover his alleged embezzlements.

The defendant's embezzlements were not confined to his strictly business affairs, Marsh charged. The government alleges that Brown, as treasurer of the Redstone Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, misapplied $15,200 of the presbytery's funds intrusted to him.

When the present trial is concluded, Brown probably will be tried, with his brother, Jesse Brown, an officer of the Fayette City National Bank. Joint indictments of embezzlement are pending against them.

MAYOR CALLED IN POLICE QUIZ

Both Mayor Charles H. Kline and Director James M. Clark, of the Public Safety Department, are expected to present answers today to the charges made by the James W. Houston Company. In a letter received yesterday by council, an official of the company voiced severe criticism of the police department. The letter stated that several robberies have occured at the company's property, Liberty avenue and Fourteenth street, and nothing had been done by the police.

Councilmen, after hearing the letter, decided that the safety department should be called upon to report on the matter and to explain what action had been taken on previous complaints mentioned in the letter. It was also decided to have the mayor present and ask if he had been informed of the matter.

James F. Malone, president of Council, said the letter was the severest indictment of the police bureau to reach Council.

EXECUTIVES OF DISTRICT LAUD PLAN

Indorsements of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's flag contest were received today from the governors of the three states entering into the tri-state district centering in this city. Gov. John S. Fisher, of Pennsylvania; Gov. William S. Conley, of West Virginia, and Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, of Ohio, all praised the plan and commended it to the attention of the schools, civic and patriotic organizations.

Gov. Fisher said:

"Personally, and as Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, I heartily commend the annual nationwide flag contest plan of the United States Flag Association whose purpose is to deepen the appreciation of American ideals among our boys and girls and foster reverence for the flag. These contests, I believe, will be most effective and far reaching in their patriotic influences. I am confident that a plan so lofty and constructive will receive the consideration and support of the citizens of this commonwealth and the full co-operation of our schools, civic bodies, and other organizations."

Gov. Conley said:

"As Governor of West Virginia I heartily indorse the flag contest of the United States Flag Association, the purpose of which is to bring into proper consideration and appreciation the flag of the United States as the visible, symbolic representation of our national sovereignty, ideals, traditions, and institutions. I am glad to recommend, and join in, this great patriotic movement."

Gov. Cooper said:

"With its worthy purpose of educating American youth to have proper respect for the flag of our country and the ideals for which that emblem stands, I cordially indorse the flag contest and assure you of my co-operation in promoting this worthy undertaking."

GAS TAX BOOST RULING MADE

HARRISBURG, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—James Lynall Stuart, Secretary of Highways, has informed the Senate Committee on Public Highways that any move toward a 4-cent gasoline tax must originate in the Legislature. He made this statement when the committee called upon him to ask for full details on highway finances for their guidance in dealing with the numerous road bills already before them. The Governor, in his message to the Legislature, expressed opposition to the adding of further mileage to the state highway system until the construction has caught up with the present mileage, but this did not halt the usual flow of road bills, and the number in both houses now exceeds 200.

VATICAN CONFIRMS ROME, CHURCH AGREEMENT NOTE

ROME, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Vatican circles confirmed today the previously reported pending announcement of settlement of the Roman question on Tuesday, February 12. The qualifying clause, "unless it should be postponed until Easter," was added, however.

In some respects, the new basis appears more practical than the solution first suggested for enlarging the present papal territories. The only accession to which the Pope is represented as agreeing is a minor rectification of the present Vatican confines. It was reported, however, that he does accept an indemnity of 2,000,000,000 lira (approximately $105,000,000) to be devoted to foreign missions, for the Italian occupation of the pontifical states.

The addition of Villas Doria and Abembelek to the Vatican gardens, with the intervening territory, would have produced complications because several thousand persons live in this area.

According to the latest reports, the Pope would preserve the Apostolic palace of the Vatican with the present garden rectified so as to make possible the erection within them of a railway station which would give him access to the world.

The Pope also would be acknowledged as a free and independent sovereign with his person proclaimed as sacred. The exercise of his ministry would be without any control or interference and the Holy See would be at liberty to communicate with the Catholic world either directly or through Italian channels free of any charge.

OIL MEN PLAN TO ELECT, THEN REMOVE STEWART

PRESENT BOARD SLATED FOR DISMISSAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—A group of minority Standard Oil Company of Indiana stockholders have organized under the name of the Justice Society, Inc., to vote for Col. Robert W. Stewart's re-election as chairman of Standard of Indiana and later his removal and that of the entire board of directors through court action, W. G. Williams, a retired engineer and the society's leader, announced today.

SEES GRAB SCHEME

His society is not joining forces with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to oust Col. Stewart at the March 7 directors' meeting, Mr. Williams said, because he and his associates believe the other Standard Oil groups, including Standard of New Jersey, are taking advantage of the fight to gain control of the Indiana Company. This, in his opinion, would be to the detriment of Indiana stockholders.

A spectacular flurry in Indiana oil stock, which swept through the curb market, added a display of fireworks, but experts said it was only the reaction to the announcement of a 50 per cent stock dividend and had no direct connection with the Rockefeller fight to prevent the re-election of Stewart as chairman of the board, at Whiting, Ind., March 7.

REACHES NEW HIGH

The stock went to a high of 102 on the New York Curb and reached 108 on the Chicago market yesterday. The high Chicago figure brought the company close to the billion corporation class. The turnover for the day amounted to 127,100 shares.

At the Rockefeller offices it was said there had been no swing of proxies to Col. Stewart as a result of the stock dividend announcement and representatives added that the Rockefeller proxy committee was nearing the 45 per cent of the proxies which they estimate will be sufficient to control the election.

Stewart's representatives were equally ptimistic of lining up enough proxies to outvote the Rockefeller faction.

Police Chief Is Assistant To Mothers

CHIEF OF POLICE AND "MOTHER'S BUREAU"

Police Chief C. M. Lowell, Forest Hills, is also chief of his own "Mother's Service Bureau." Here he advises George Henisch that "mother said you're to get a loaf of bread for her."

CHIEF OF POLICE LOWELL

Chief Lowell founded the "Bureau." Mothers passing him at the "main corner" leave messages for their youngsters and the chief delivers the messages when school's out.

OFFICER PAUL SEIBERT ASSISTS

Seibert helps the chief and has the next corner. Robert Burkhart is to hurry home; Sam Kirwes is to lunch at grandma's, and Peter Kliment is supposed to go to his aunt's.

POLICE DOUBLE ON GUIDE DUTY FOR MOTHERS

C. M. Lowell, chief of police in Forest Hills, residential borough on the Ardmore boulevard, has added another duty to the list of things he and his men must do each day—he has established a mothers' service bureau with headquarters at the borough building.

"Ho, Billy; your mother says you are to have lunch at your grandma's; Margy, you're to stop at the store for bread."

These and other orders puzzle motorists when the chief stops traffic at Bevington road and Ardmore boulevard so that school children may cross in safety.

Similar scenes are enacted at Summit street and the boulevard, where either Paul Seibert or Guy Tuttle, borough motorcycle officers, are stationed. And Fire Chief Clifford Davies does the same thing.

THAT'S HOW THEY START

The bureau was founded accidentally when a Forest Hills mother, waiting on her child, explained her troubles to the police chief.

"Leave your message with me; I'll tell Johnny," the chief offered.

The news spread and other mothers tried it successfully.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—While snow lies thick on ice-bound Europe, Greenland, the proverbial ice box of the world, is basking in sunshine.

Sullivan is charged with keeping a gambling house.

Rosario Arcadia will go on trial today on a charge of maintaining a gambling device. He and George Zarr were arraigned yesterday and when Zarr pleaded guilty, he was fined $25 and costs and placed on parole for one year. Five other persons who pleaded guilty to similar charges were assessed $25 each and costs and also paroled for a year.

SUNDAY SHOWS CHARITY, MOVIE OWNER EXPLAINS

Morris Akselrad, proprietor of the Regent Theater, Helen street, McKees Rocks, admitted today that moving picture shows, for which admission was charged, had been presented at his theater on several Sundays recently; but declared all had been benefit performances, and that he had not received one cent of profit.

He said he could not remember who the beneficiaries were. One was a man who had lost a leg, he said, and he thought some charches also benefited, but he was not certain.

Edward Rieder, chief of police, said the Sunday shows had started as benefit performances, but some had been "slipped over on him" that were not philanthropic, but commercial.

"Sunday shows don't go here, hereafter," said Rieder, "unless they are for charity."

JUSTICE INTERVIEWED

Akselrad said he had been told by Justice of the Peace James J. Westwood to refer inquirers about the Sunday shows to him. Westwood was accordingly interviewed.

He said he knew who the beneficiaries of the Sunday shows were, but he did not want to "get their names mixed up in this." One, he said, was a man who had lost a leg, and another was a group of citizens who used this means to raise a fund for a civic Fourth of July celebration.

Akselrad said that the promoters of the benefits had come to him and said they had the permission of the borough authorities to give these shows, and he had taken their word for it.

He was always present, he explained, because the responsibility for the theater was his, and he could not afford to delegate it to someone else. He would much prefer, he added, to spend Sunday quietly at home.

NO TICKETS SOLD

Tickets for the Sunday shows were not sold at the ticekt window, he said. The price of admission was collected inside of the door.

On account of the hue and cry that has been raised over his Sunday shows, he will be closed next Sunday. He has no other Sunday benefit performances in prospect.

QUEEN MOTHER OF SPAIN DIES

MADRID, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Maria Christina, Queen Mother of Spain, died here early today.

Maria Christina was 70 July 21, 1928. She was the daughter of the late Archduke Charles Ferdinand and Archduchess Elizabeth Francisca Maria, of Austria. After an early life of seclusion, during which she expected to become a nun, she met and married King Alfonso XII of Spain, following the death of his first queen, Mercedes of Bourbon.

The present king of Spain, Alfonso XIII, was born in 1886, six months after the death of Alfonso XII. Two previous children of the royal pair had been daughters. Maria Christina became regent of Spain following the death of her husband and ruled until May, 1902, when her son reached legal age to assume the throne. During her regency, the Spanish American war took place.

The present king of Spain, Alfonso XIII, is her only surviving issue, both daughters having died early in the present century.

SUSPECT HELD IN TRAIN ROBBERY

HERKIMER, N. Y., Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Thomas Fialowski, 30, of Buffalo, was arrested near here today by state troopers in connection with the holdup of a New York Central train just outside Herkimer early today.

Troopers say Fialowski admitted the holdup. Two watches, stolen from passengers, and $40, the amount obtained in the holdup, were found in his possession, the troopers said.

The bandit who held up the passengers in a day coach on the train escaped after shooting over the heads of the terrified victims. A shot was fired at him by Dominik Dee, of Frankfort, as he leaped from the speeding train.

KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS

Troopers say Fialowski told them he was knocked unconscious in leaping from the train and lay beside the tracks five hours. Later he made his way into Herkimer and boarded a bus bound for Coldbrook.

Fialowski is said to have told the troopers also that he had escaped from two prisons within the past two years and was wanted in this state and in Missouri as an escaped convict.

FOUR ROBBED

CRUISERS BILL IS PASSED 68 TO 12

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. — The American government appeared to be on its way today to the construction of an American navy "second to none in the world"—unless a new disarmament conference is held.

The administration's new cruiser bill, passed by an overwhelming vote of the Senate, was sent to conference today to iron out minor differences in the measure as it passed the two branches of congress. It probably will be finally enacted and sent to the White House for President Coolidge's signature before the end of the week.

15 MODERN SHIPS

The bill will add 15 fast 10,000 ton cruisers, carrying eight-inch guns, to the American navy, supplanting old worn-out waships, some of which date back a quarter of a century. A modern giant aircraft also was authorized.

There were two distinct notes of peace in the bill—a provision that the President shall suspend all or part of the construction program if a new disarmament agreement is reached among the nations, and the Reed amendment, proposing international treaties to guarantee the rights of neutrals and private property on the sea in time of war. The President likewise was "encouraged" to arrange another disarmament conference.

HAS BIG MAJORITY

The vote enacting the bill was 68 to 12, bearing out International News Service forecasts. All efforts to soften the building program were defeated and its warmest advocates declared the measure, by placing an adequate American navy of the high seas, would tend to promote world peace.

The cruisers each will cost $17,000,000 and the aircraft carrier, $19,000,000, making $274,000,000 in all. Half of the vessels will be built in government yards and half in private yards, thus scattering the building activity all over the country.

CONDITIONS IN MIDWEST SHOW NEED OF TEMPERANCE

HEARST CONTEST HAILED BY BALTIMORE NOTABLES

Dispatches from the Middle West, where some of the strongest dry sentiment prevails, portrays phases of prohibition for which the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest is endeavoring to find a legally acceptable and socially workable substitute.

The Indianapolis Times describes the "beer flat" as an institution peculiar to the Middle West, as "a haven for the increasing number who defy the Volstead act." The newspaper goes on to say:

"Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, St. Louis, Kansas City, Indianapolis and points between are filled with them. The beer flat has, in a short span of years, become much more popular than the speakeasy. The patronage is made up chiefly of friends or of residents in the block where the flat is located.

"The prohibition enforcement office at Chicago estimates there are 5,000 'beer flats' in that city. In St. Paul they outnumber speakeasies two to one, there being 350 in that city by conservative estimate.

"In Kansas City most of the beer flats serve home brew beer from bottles stored in cupboards. In St. Louis there are 15,000 places where an alcoholic drink can be bought, with beer flats predominating over speakeasies by a ratio of about 15 to 1."

In Cincinnati

The Cincinnati Post describes editorially a club of Cincinnati workmen which is "by no means a speakeasy masquerading as a club." The paper says:

The members sit about, play pinochle, and regale themselves with home brew. They feel that their rights to these simple pleasures are no less than those who belong to more pretentious clubs, where rich men drink their highballs freely. So these workmen are no little puzzled at being raided time and again. They used to have $1,500 in their treasury, but now by reason of fines they have had to pay, the treasury has dwindled to $350."

The temperance prize contest continues daily to receive letters of entry by the hundreds from all points of the compass.

Men active in the public affairs of Baltimore, Md., including members of the bar and lawmakers, heartily indorse Mr. Hearst's offer of a $25,000 prize for the best temperance solution.

Enthusiastic interest in the contest has been manifested by thousands of readers of the Baltimore News and the Baltimore Sunday American.

Among prominent Baltimoreans who have indorsed the project are Representative Vincent L. Palmisano, John Philip Hill, former representative and long a crusader in the temperance movement and Arthur L. Machen, Jr., noted attorney.

Comments of prominent Baltimoreans follow:

John Philip Hill

John Philip Hill, former representative in Congress and a temperance crusader:

"I think Mr. Hearst has done a very real service to the American people in seeking the best possible plan for evolving a really temperate method of dealing with the prohibition question. The $25,000 Mills prohibition enforcement plan, by general consensus of opinion, is utterly meaningless.

"As Mr. Hearst has pointed out, the Volstead act prevents the use of such temperate beverages as wines, ales and beer which can not easily be bootlegged and drives the American people to drinking alcoholic beverages that anybody can make.

"Mr. Mills' plan for the enforcement of the Volstead act is an excellent example of the fundamental fallacy in the whole prohibition situation. As New York prohibition administrator, Mr. Mills demonstrated that he could not enforce the Volstead act. The essentials of his plan are all right, with the only exception that the plan will not work.

"His plan is to prevent all smuggling of illicit spirits into the United States. If he could do this, he could enforce the Volstead act, but the experience of 10 years proves that such a thing cannot be done.

"Anybody can make alcohol at home and anybody can add flavoring and coloring matter. The prohibition question remains the most desperate and the most important one before the American public. I think Mr. Hearst has done a splendid thing in seeking a substitute for prohibition, a more liberal measure which will secure more freedom for the public and be less offensive of the rights of citizens.

"As soon as I can find time to study the contest rules submitted by Mr. Hearst I shall consider it a public duty to attempt to win the $25,000, by offering what, after 10 years of careful study, I believe to be the best method of dealing with the prohibition question."

V. L. Palmisano

Vincent L. Palmisano, representative in Congress from Maryland.

"The Eighteenth Amendment can never be enforced, even if they go to extremes as in the state of Michigan and attempt to impose life sentences on persons convicted of dry law violations. As ordinary citizens, we do not violate the law through fear of being locked up. When we violate laws of our country our fear is that we will be shunned by our friends.

"When we steal or violate the law 'thou shalt not kill,' we are shunned by all. But when we violate the Volstead act, the best citizens; the biggest men in public affairs, pay no attention.

"If a law were passed impeaching every legislator or one who holds a judicial position under the Federal government, in the event he were found guilty of violating the law or of acquiescing in its violation, the Eighteenth Amendment would soon be repealed!

"The high officials in Washington should be barred from partaking of any drinks in any of the embassies in Washington. It matters not that the foreign embassies are permitted to have liquor."

County Suspends 2 In Attack on Agent

Robert Manion and Joseph Funalock, who will be arraigned next Wednesday before the United States commissioner for an attempt to slug a prohibition agent in the Federal building Monday, have been suspended from their respective positions with the county, it was learned yesterday. Funalock, connected with the county garage, was suspended by H. B. Allen, superintendent of the bureau of motor vehicles. Although Manion is on a leave of absence of the bureau of weights and measures, he also was suspended. Jack Barrett, of Greenfield, faces a similar charge, having been with the others when the attack attempt was made.

Justifiable Pride

When friends glance into your kitchen and say, "Oh, I see you have a General Electric Refrigerator," you've a right to feel a bit of pride because you know and they know there is none better.

It has established a new standard of quietness in operation. It is so automatic that you never even oil it and this distinctively electric refrigerator keeps food always at precisely the right coolness and furnishes as many ice cubes as you are likely to need.

With all its mechanism hermetically sealed in a steel casing, it is dirt-proof and worry-proof. And it is up on top entirely out of the way so that the cabinet has the greatest food storage space.

We invite you to examine this "years ahead" refrigerator, and to inquire about our deferred payment plan.

Everybody wants to be attractive. It is a just and natural ambition. But no one can be attractive without a clear skin.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils, eczema and other skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low.

Rich, red blood builds and sustains

The sure way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood nourishes the body and works against infection and disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

What's Wrong With This Picture?

Elenore Meherin Asks Why Narcotic Peddlers Are Tolerated

There are 1,000,000 drug addicts in this country. The number is growing daily; the nefarious traffic is fostered by heartless profiteers and the youth of the nation is threatened. All these facts Elenore Meherin, famous writer, has brought out in previous articles on the "dope" evil in the Sun-Telegraph.

In the following article she gives some instances of the hopelessness of addicts and appeals for a campaign of education to save our children from the most terrible curse known to man.

By Elenore Meherin

"I'M an addict. I'm going to sell some dope down in the alley there at 2 o'clock. I want to get arrested. I want to go to jail. I'm afraid of myself."

Assistant Attorney General Crim testifies before the House of Representatives that addicts frequently make this announcement to him.

Every judge has heard the piteous plea. It is made by desperate men—insanely desperate when they want delivery from their "dope," and when they pathetically hope for cure.

Yet these broken men show a courage beyond estimate. They enter deliberately into a hell of pain. They know what their torments will be. Imagine neuritis in every nerve of your body; a wild, convulsive twitching, and a craving that would drive you to batter your head against iron walls; to tear out your hair; to cut the veins of your wrists.

Men of iron constitution; men of high education—dope makes no distinction. It levels the finest as the lowest. The awful thing is this: In eight cases out of ten the addict is the victim of misfortune over which he has little control.

"Addiction," says Stephen C. Porter, United States Representative, whose narcotic farm bill has just been signed by President Coolidge, "rarely occurs through viciousness except in cases of habitues of the underworld. And perhaps the majority of these have been reduced to this social condition as a result of addiction.

"The principal causes of addiction are unskilled medical treatment, momentary recklessness of youth, use of drugs as relief from acute, chronic pain by persons ignorant of their habit-forming nature, and solicitation by peddlers."

Habit, Once Seated, Means Certain Doom

But once committed to the habit, even for the short period of three months, the hope of escape is permanently gone, the boy or girl, though he or she come from the highest lineage and the best environment, is an outcast.

He is soon lost to his family and his old associates. He becomes indifferent to his personal appearance, unkempt and finally not even aware of personal filth.

He is banished to the underworld for contacts with peddlers. He is unfit for steady work, driven to steal, sometimes even to kill that he may get money to buy "dope."

"I would choose death for myself or anyone that I loved," reported Bishop Charles H. Brent, formerly of the Philippines and for 20 years a student of the narcotic problem in the Orient. "I would choose smallpox, malaria, yellow fever in preference to drug addiction. No disease is so terrible as this which kills both body and soul."

Who are those it may attack?

If you could look at the names on the satanic roster of addiction, your complacent apathy would vanish. Here is the son of one of the finest and best actors in America—a name known to every household. This son was a handsome, magnetic fellow but a few years ago. He was already started on a career promising as his father's. When he was in unbearable physical pain, due to war wounds, the habit got him. He's tried desperately, time and again, to be cured. He's still an addict. He admits having begged to get money for dope. Proud, handsome fellow like that!

Here is a college professor—a nurse—a young medical student. Here the mother of three children. She was well-to-do. Ten years of addiction have cost her home, her sons, her looks.

Everything Gone Under Ravages of Poison

But even these horrible 10 years have not entirely wiped away traces of her former dignity.

On that roster there are singers, artists, writers. No, they didn't belong to the underworld nor gravitate there through personal viciousness. But they are doomed to that environment now as a leper to the banished islands.

The other day in San Francisco, a prisoner was brought before the judge to be sentenced. He had slashed both his wrists—death, pain, anything to shut out even for a mo-

AVIATION DOMINANT FORCE OF ERA, W. R. HEARST SAYS

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—On the eve of the opening of the New York aviation show in Grand Central Palace today, William Randolph Hearst last night sent this telegram to Commander John Dwight Sullivan, of Aviators' Post No. 743, American Legion:

"Aviation is the most important matter before the people of the United States in this day and generation.

"It means genuine rapid transit and transportation between all parts of this great country, a country so large that no other form of transit and transportation can be truthfully called rapid.

"It means rapid communication between all parts of the continent and North and South America. It will speedily mean rapid communication with Europe and Asia.

"Furthermore, full development of aviation in this country means a complete defense against and danger of foreign aggression which close communication between Europe and Asia might precipitate.

"The enormous airplane fleet which this country will need for commercial purposes can be made at any time an irresistible addition to the defense fleets of our Army and Navy.

"Therefore, for the purpose of national development as well as national defense, aviation is a dominating factor.

"This era of ours will be known as the era of aviation and because of aviation the progress and achievement of this era will be greater than that of all eras which have preceded it.

"WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST."

Telegrams of good wishes also were received from Augustus Post, pioneer in the development of aviation; Lady Heath, Amelia Earhart, Postmaster General Harry S. New, Senator Hiram Bingham, president of the National Aeronautical Association, and Rear Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer.

SENATORS FOR DOPE PROBE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Senate leaders have rallied behind the resolution ordering a joint congressional investigation of the widespread illicit dope traffic.

Among the chief proponents were Senator Curtis (Rep.), of Kansas, the vice president-elect, and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the Senate. Both Curtis and Robinson spoke enthusiastically of the proposal.

A companion resolution of inquiry already has been introduced in the House by Representative LaGuardia (Rep.), of New York. It was referred to the rules committee.

In the Senate, the resolution must be referred to the committee on audit and control because it carries an appropriation of $50,000 to conduct the probe not only during sessions of Congress, but during any recess or adjournment. A report must be submitted next December.

Son of Wealth Held In $750 Film Theft

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.-(AP)-A prospective Oxford student, son of a wealthy contractor, is held in $25,000 bail, accused of attempting to steal photographic supplies which he said he had no money to buy.

The student is George Kaplan, Jr., 19-year-old senior at Columbia University, who was to have sailed next week for England to take a scholarship at Oxford. He was arrested after the manager of a photographic supply company had surprised him in the firm's offices with $750 worth of lenses and cameras in a bag nearby.

CANAL PROJECT INDORSED

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—"The proposed Nicaraguan Canal is of the utmost importance to America," declared L. B. Gilchrest, vice president of W. R. Grace & Co., one of the nation's largest steamship concerns, upon his arrival here from New York aboard the liner Venezuela.

"Present peacetime activities probably find the Panama Canal adequate," he continued, "but in the event of war or an unusually heavy run of shipping, America's only available short water passage between the Pacific and the Atlantic oceans would be found inadequate.

"As the operators of a fleet of vessels in the intercoastal trade, our company would be embarrassed if forced to send our ships around Cape Horn."

May Beegle presented Albert Spalding, foremost American violinist, in Syria Mosque last evening, before an audience that demanded much more than the allotted program.

It was not the greatest playing Spalding has given Pittsburgh, but his every performance is so imbued with deep-rooted classic spirit, there is such repose in his manner, such purity in his tone, and enough variety in the music he presents, that we are always assured of excellent entertainment.

While listening to the unadorned richness of his Corelli and Bach, one little suspects the fire that flames forth in his Spanish or Gypsy music. But that emotion, so wonderfully bridled, never permits of any uncouthness in phrasing, any liberty towards sentimentality.

Andre Benoist, as always, played substantial accompaniments. As encores, we were glad to hear some of Spalding's own arrangements. The quiet curtain on the Mosque stage was a startling improvement.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Two Building Given Hospital by Morgan

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—J. P. Morgan has given the New York Hospital two downtown office buildings on Maiden Lane and John street, valued at approximately $2,000,000.

A deed in the Registrar's office shows that the 15-story Jewelers' Building and the 12-story Anderson Building had been conveyed to the hospital entirely free of encumbrances.

State Dry Law Again Rejected in Maryland

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6.—(INS)—The Maryland House of Delegates rejected by a vote of 64 to 45 yesterday the State Prohibition enforcement bill and put a Legislative clincher on it which will prevent it being introduced again this session.

All 26 Baltimore delegates voted against the bill, delegate Curtis leaving his sick-bed to hobble into the chamber on crutches.

LAND BOOSTING MAY ALTER AIRPORT

Excessive demands for additional property to be acquired for the construction of the new Pittsburgh airport in Mifflin Township may lead to a change in plans for laying out the field, according to indications by the County Commissioners.

Since the airport site was selected the adjoining land owners have shot up the prices of their property and are now asking thousands for land that formerly sold at a few hundred dollars an acre.

PRICES SKYROCKETED

The climax was reached at a meeting of the County Commissioners yesterday when they were informed that owners of 330 acres scheduled to be taken over for the airport were asking from $1,000 to $3,000 an acre for their property.

This price the commissioners regarded as extortionate. They were then informed by County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich that the Hays Realty Company offered to sell the county 500 acres adjoining the airfield at $250 acre an acre and that this property could be used for the airport by making minor changes in the layout of the field.

ENGINEERS TO REPORT

The commissioners referred the proposed change in plans to the county engineers for a report.

The 500 acres offered to the county by the Hays Realty Company include the Willock and the Kenny farms. The acceptance of this offer, the commissioners indicated, probably would save the county considerable trouble in the event that the owners of the other property, which it had been proposed to take over by condemnation proceedings, appealed from the price set by the board of viewers and carried their demand for the $1,000 and $3,000 per acre prices to the courts.

NEED FOR EARLY MORNING TRAFFIC OFFICERS DENIED

Traffic policemen come on duty only at the time the early morning traffic peak is starting, an investigation of complaints of traffic snarls when corners are not manned, has revealed.

The explanation as given by Traffic Inspector Benjamin Marshall is that the traffic is not sufficiently heavy before 8 a. m. to warrant the shifting of even a few policemen from other hours. He admitted having asked Council during the recent budget session to give him more men but these men were to be used for the most part for enforcing parking regulations.

Council refused his request upon the advice of the Bureau of Traffic Planning that signal lights to be installed the early part of April would eliminate the necessity for approximately 60 policemen now under Inspector Marshall's command.

SHIFT PLANNED

The peak for the morning as revealed by the Boy Scout survey of 1928 is between 8 and 8:15. For the evening the peak is considered as between 5:15 and 5:30, with a fairly steady stream until 6. After that, except at 16 downtown points, it is considered negligent.

The flow of vehicles between 7:30 a. m. and 9:30 a. m. at Second avenue and Grant street, the busiest intersection, is 3,956, and from 4:30 p. m. until 6 p. m. is 4,057. Second avenue and Smithfield street, the next busiest corner, has an average of 3,911 for the two-hour morning period and 2,479 for the hour and one-half evening period. These are used as examples. The hours between 9:30 and 4:30 are not considered extra heavy.

116 DAY CORNERMEN

Inspector Marshall has 116 cornermen who work from 8 a. m. until 6 p. m. In addition he has nine horsemen who work the same hours. Sixteen more men come on at 3:30 p. m. and work until 11 p. m., on what are considered the 16 busiest night intersections and five motorcycle men take care of the theater traffic.

The only points manned at night are Fifth and Sixth avenues, Sixth and Penn avenues, Seventh and Penn avenues, Fifth avenue and Grant street, Sixth and Webster avenues, both ends of the Point bridge, Fifth avenue and Smithfield street, Second avenue and Grant street, Second avenue and Smithfield street, Sixth avenue and Smithfield street and three points at the Glory Barn in West Carson street, according to the inspector. The traffic flow at other intersections is considered light enough to take care of itself.

WOMAN'S CRIES FOIL ARMED ATTACKER

Attracted by screams of Mae Geis, who was approached in East South Diamond street, North Side, by a middle aged man armed with a stiletto, Patrolman William Walsh and Christ Stahl arrived in time to see the assailant run down an alley and disappear in the darkness.

The woman was seized by the armed thug directly in front of the North Side police patrol garage in East South Diamond street, near Sandusky street, last night.

A search through the neighborhood proved futile.

Dandy Way to Tint Gray Hair

By MONA EVERS

I don't blame any woman for wanting to do something about gray, faded or streaked hair because there is nothing that makes one look older.

Whenever I am asked for a method of restoring gray hair I invariably recommend nothing more or less than a mixture of good old sage tea and sulphur. Common garden sage, when properly brewed and mixed with sulphur and a little alcohol, makes a wonderful recolorer of gray hair. You can either prepare the mixture at home yourself, or more conveniently, buy it already prepared and ready to use. All druggists carry it in the form of Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur, and since the cost is only 75c a bottle, there is really no need to prepare it yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, one strand at a time. One application banishes the gray and one or two more completely restores your hair to its original color, so evenly, so naturally that no one can possibly tell you have used it. Everyone who tries Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tells me he, or she, gets perfect results, so I don't hesitate to pass the secret on to others.

"FLU"

Some Sensible Advice

1. Avoid crowds.
2. Avoid chilling.
3. Avoid fatigue.
4. Avoid anyone who is sneezing or coughing.
5. Take plenty of fluids.
6. Take plenty of nourishment.
7. Keep nasal passages clean.
8. Keep the bowels open.
9. If you catch cold do something about it at once! Remember, "Flu" usually develops from a cold. At the first sneeze, chill or headache, take Hill's Cascara-Quinine.

Hill's stops a cold in one day because it does the four necessary things in one:

1. Checks the cold germs.
2. Allays the fever.
3. Opens the bowels.
4. Tones the system.

That's the complete action a cold requires, and Hill's supplies it! Look for the red box—all druggists.

HE LOOKS AFTER THE TWENTY-SIX ATHLETES OF WASHINGTON BALL TEAM

For More Than Twenty Years He's Been Relieving Lame Back, Sore, Stiff Muscles, Swollen Joints, Sprains, Achy Feet, Rheumatic Pains and Kindred Ills of Big League Athletes.

Greatest Living Expert on Keeping Athletes in Perfect Condition.

TRY HIS METHOD ON YOUR ACHES OR PAINS

We want to introduce the reader to Mike Martin, who probably knows more about keeping a person in fighting condition than anyone else living. For over 20 years at various universities and with the New York Yankees, Cincinnati Reds and now as trainer of the Washington Ball Club, Mike Martin has won fame as a lightning quick fixer of sprains, pains, aches, etc.

Mike Martin is a genius. He can take men claimed to be too old, stiff or rheumatic to play baseball at all and make them as frisky, vigorous, supple and quick as a boy. Mike Martin knows his business—ask Herb Pennock, Ty Cobb, Geo. Sisler, Lee Meadows, Ray Kremer, Walter Johnson, Alexander, Chief Bender, Nick Altrock, or any of the big stars of today, or the past few years. They know. Ask the trainer of any of the Big League Ball Clubs.

MIKE MARTIN, Trainer Washington Baseball Club

HE CAN HELP YOU

Mike Martin has had a little folder printed, telling how he quickly banishes stiff, swollen joints, achy, lame backs or feet, various rheumatic pains, etc. He has arranged with leading druggists here in town to sell you generous sized bottles of the liniment these great "Stars" use. He has made it a long time for his own use. Athletes on other teams kept Mike busy making his "Mike Martin Liniment." Trainers, coaches, colleges, big league teams all over the country buy it by the gallon from Mike. Now, Mike Martin, swamped with demands for this liniment and directions how to use it, has employed a big sales company to distribute it and they are supplying all the druggists—Mike still superintends the making of it—during odd times between acting as trainer of the American League Washington Ball Club.

ASK THE DRUGGIST

If your druggist hasn't secured a few bottles of Mike Martin's Liniment, ask him to get it. There is no other liniment like it. It works like greased lightning even in cases of chronic lameness, swellings, stiffness or pains, yet is so mild it can be used on a baby's skin. Mike Martin's Liniment is unquestionably the most effective, quick, sure, up-to-date remedy made. Big league players couldn't afford to fool with weaker, slower remedies. No one else should.

WHISKY THEFT RING THOUGHT BROKEN

Police chiefs of the east boroughs and detectives from the Frankstown Avenue Police Station today were co-operating with Police Chief John W. Morris, of Swissvale, in an effort to determine the ramifications of an alleged whisky theft ring said to have been bared in Swissvale with the arrest of three men who were attempting to rob a drug store there.

The men, Tony Dell, 27, of 1705 Boulevard of the Allies; Ray Danner, 38, Bates street, and Herman Molden, 42, Coltart street, were arrested by Swissvale police while, the police said, they were trying to force an entrance into Allen's drug store, 2019 Noble street, Swissvale.

Their arrest followed a concerted effort by police of county to stop the theft of whisky from drug stores soon after it was delivered from the government warehouse. From the three suspects authorities said they hope to learn identity of the "higher-ups."

Reports of East Borough police chiefs show that 30 or 40 drug stores have been robbed of whisky, most of them two and three times within the last six months. In Swissvale alone seven stores were entered, two of them twice. Whisky, money and cigarets were taken.

TRAFFIC OFFICER GAINS HEALTH BY USE OF KONJOLA

"Konjola Is the Medicine I Should Have Had in the First Place," States Grateful Pittsburgh Policeman.

"In Konjola I found the first and only relief from a complication of ailments!" This expression sums up the many reasons why Konjola, the new and different medicine, is creating such a furore in Pittsburgh and wherever it is introduced.

MR. WILLIAM O'CONNOR

Daily men and women are calling on the Konjola Man, who is at the McCulloch-Dow Drug Company, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, and telling him of the amazing benefits they derived through the use of this modern medicine. From the Konjola Man you will hear no promises nor claims—he does not have to make them as Konjola stands on a rock-bottom foundation of successes, even over cases of the most stubborn and chronic nature. Konjola is known for its works. This master medicine is supreme in cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles or of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Its fame rests on actual experiences of those who put this marvelous medicine to the test, as did Mr. William O'Connor, well-known traffic officer, 7351 Bennett street, Pittsburgh. Jubilant over his escape from chronic illness, Officer O'Connor said to the Konjola Man just a few days ago:

"Konjola is the medicine I should have had in the first place because it proved to me that it is the master of them all. I am indeed fortunate that I found Konjola when I did. Although I did not have a very serious case of stomach trouble or nervousness, they were growing worse all the time. My food never digested properly and quantities of gas formed after every meal. This caused a lot of discomfort because my out-of-door work gave me a hearty appetite. For about an hour after eating I was in misery and there were incidents in my line of duty that required a cool head and collected thoughts. Quite often I became upset and was hardly myself.

"But what a change came over me when this wonderful Konjola started to work. Just as I was told it would, it went right to the very source of my troubles. From the very start of the treatment I could feel myself getting better. It was a thrill, I tell you, to realize that at last I had found the medicine I always needed; the medicine I should have had in the first place. In a very short time every sign of stomach trouble had disappeared. My appetite can be satisfied, and you can imagine my pleasure at being able to eat anything I crave without any ill after effects. As I said, I expected results from Konjola, but not so quickly nor so thoroughly as this. I indorse this amazing medicine with all my heart and soul. No wonder it is called the master medicine."

Just another proof, if added proof were necessary, of the merits and powers of this new and different medicine. The experience of Officer O'Connor is not a rare one by any means; there are countless thousands of cases far more grave than his, that have yielded to this medicine of medicines.

The Konjola Man is at the McCulloch-Dow Drug Company, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

GENE AUSTIN ON RADIO; LONDON IS HEARD AGAIN

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

WITH 5SW coming into Pittsburgh again last night during the KDKA concert period at 6:30 o'clock, fans have become all "het up" with the London fever, and the popular question of the day has become "Did you hear 5SW last night?"

It is quite thrilling to hear those Westminster chimes and we believe there are many hundred fans who would most willingly sit at their sets until 3 in the morning to hear "Big Ben."

GENE AUSTIN

The outstanding feature on Pittsburgh programs tonight is Gene Austin, comedian, who will sing at 9:30 o'clock through WJAS.

Miss Roslyn Ziegler, young Pittsburgh pianist, is the featured artist in a new series at KQV called "Moment Musical." She will play Paderewski's "Gracovienne Fantastique" and the "Etude Heroique," by Leschetizsky.

Mabel Jackson, soprano, will be heard with the Franklin Ensemble at WLW at 9 o'clock.

A selection from Wagner's "Lohengrin" will be played during the Slumber Music at 11 p. m. over WJZ, WHAM and WRC.

House Committee Ballot Favors Radio Board

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(AP)—By a unanimous vote, the House Merchant Marine committee yesterday approved the White bill to extend the life of the Federal Radio Commission as an administrative body for another year.

If the measure is passed it will provide for the second extension of the commission's life as an administrative body. If this extension is not authorized the commission under existing law will become an appellate body to review radio allocations made by the Department of Commerce's radio division.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

Pain Stops Instantly!

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

Four-Fifths of U. S. Listening in for 2 Hours Daily

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Four-fifths of the families in the United States spend at least two hours daily listening to the radio, according to a survey just completed by the National Broadcasting Company.

The crystal set is rapidly becoming the dodo of radio, less than 4 per cent of the sets in use now being of that type. The average family has either a five or six-tube receiver. During 1928, no less than $650,000,000 was spent for radio sets and equipment.

The most popular hours for listening in are from 8 to 10 in the evening and the noon hour.

Bridge Rebuilding Planned by County

Grand jury hearings and contract plans are being prepared for the reconstruction of 12 county bridges, ordered rebuilt by the County Commissioners. The bridges are:

MILTON SILLS SERIOUSLY ILL IN HOLLYWOOD; GOTHAM DOCTORS CONSULTED

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate).

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6.

WHEN Milton Sills suffered a nervous breakdown recently and work was called off on his current cinema, "Pat and Mike," the colony figured Milton would be back on the job in a week or so at the most. But he won't. Sills is a very sick man. As soon as he is able, Doris Kenyon (his wife) will take him to New York. She already has communicated with two specialists there and Milton will be under their care. For years, he has been a victim of nervous indigestion, but this is the first time in many a long day the star is prominent on the sick list. A day and a night nurse are with him constantly.

Doris Kenyon.

Also on the sick list, Ivan Lebedeff, youthful Russian, launched into flickers by D. W. Griffith. Ivan was badly wounded during the war. The bullet remained in his body. Ever so ofter it works its way into a position that necessitates Ivan undergoing another operation. He had just finished re-takes on a Fox picture when the contrary "souvenoir" laid him low again.

WALTER MOROSCO taking a snooze in his office. Norma Shearer getting her feet wet. Um, legitimately. It rains in Sunny California. . . Mrs. Neil Hamilton proclaims herself the latest style in widows. She designates herself a "Microphone Widow." For Neil is making a talky at night and sleeps during the day. She still prefers the night . . . Constance Talmadge, T. Netcher (her husband-to-beunless——), and Mrs. "Peg" Talmadge strolling into the Roosevelt lobby around midnight after dinner at Norma's . . . Mrs. Samuel Goldwyn buying a slew of stockings in a shop dedicated to the cocoon product . . .

Jetta Goudal taking the witness stand in her $100,000 case against the Cecil De Mille-Pathe Company, and making a swell witness. She wore a simple black suit and thought three times before answering the opposition lawyer's curt questions. Because De Mille is busy with "Dynamite" — an old custom — the trial continues at night in his studio offices. Good enough for a cinema. Or maybe too good. Lupe Velez being interviewed by a fem, Lupe being rakishly deshabille . . .

Jetta Goudal

Miss Talmadge Leases Home

OVERHEARD in the Ambassador lobby. Two girls who capitalize on their wits. One says she'll borrow Jackie's jewelry tonight as Jackie is going alone to a quiet party. The other retorts she'll have to have her jewelry just the same as Jackie is always "papa" hunting. Norma Talmadge esconced in her new Beverly Hills home which she has leased until the beach house is finished. Laura Hope Crewes is her house guest as well as diction instructress.

D. W. Griffith calling Gregory La Cava, the director, "Mr. DeCava" for the umpth time and thereby starting a pronunciation argument. All in fun. Owen Moore lunching with his agents, Myron Selznick and Frank Joyce, the latter being Alice's brother. I understand Owen has a suit pending against his former representative, Felix Young, for back salary due him for "The Marriage Bed."

Ernest Lubitsch entertaining a few friends from the Old Country at his Beverly Hills home: Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Korda, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leni, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stein, Michael Curtiz and Hans Kraley. The "other siders" stick together.

JOE BROWN and his wife back from a New York jaunt. Jules Furthman taking June Collyer to an opening in his new Ford town car. Sally Eilers so impressed with the car that she's determined to get one. It is cute as a bug's ear, but 'pears to be Singer midget size. The Actors' Equity chucked their first Hollywood dance 'tother eve. At ye Biltmore. Quite a few flicker-ites appeared. Most of the local Equity members were there. Marion Davies had a box. Marion also participated in the midnight jollies as the "Spirit of Equity." She was lovely. Taylor Holmes made a witty master of ceremonies, introducing the different acts. John Boles, Ray Dooley, Eddie Dowling and Jimmy Hanley, Sophie Tucker, Pat Rooney and his son, and Charlie King participated in the show. Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Torrence, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keenan, Irene Rich and husband, the Warner Baxters, the Clive Brooks, the Fred Niblos, Richard Arlen and Jobyna Ralston and others present. And—that's all.

Joe Brown

INFORMAL GLIMPSES :-: OF POPULAR STARS :-: IN FILMLAND

Fast mail from London brings Marion Davies this big box.

ZEP FLIGHT ON SCREEN PRAISED

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Army, Navy and civilian aeronautic experts viewed with keen interest the world premiere showing of the moving picture record of the epochal flight of the giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin from Germany to the United States.

With two great Navy dirigibles soon to be constructed and commercial dirigible projects under consideration, the presentation, yesterday, was studied by scores of Army and Navy fliers, deeply interested in the technical points of the film.

The picture, "Across the Atlantic via the Zeppelin," is remarkable picturization of the trip, with no attempt made to invovle a fictional plot. It was produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in co-operation with the Hearst newspapers. It shows the departure of the ship from Germany, the various activities aboard, frequent scenes of the old world and the farewell to Europe as the ship passes over Madeira.

The thrilling scenes of the disastrous hurricane in mid-ocean, the crumbling of the fin, the repair of it by young Knute Von Eckner, the sighting of the American coast, the passing over American cities, and finally the landing at Lakehurst also are included. Eckener and Lady Drummond Hay, the only woman passenger, give "talkie" versions of the flight.

Al Jolson's Bride For Musical Show

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(INS.)—Ruby Keeler, dancer bride of Al Jolson, will portray the role of Dixie Dugan in a musical version of J. P. McEvoy's famous book, "Show Girl," it was said on Broadway today.

Two Grand Operas Will Be Given Here

The German Grand Opera Company is to give two performances in Syria Mosque next week. Mme. Johanna Gadski will appear as guest artist, singing the role of Bruennhilde in "Die Walkure." TEAMWORK

You lift the receiver of your telephone—to call the stores, the doctor, the plumber—to chat with friends across the street or across the state—to get information or to tell the news—to buy something or to sell something.

Almost invariably, your call goes through without a hitch—whether at midnight or noon—whether one mile or a thousand.

It takes more than poles and wires and switchboards to furnish this kind of service.

It takes teamwork

. . . teamwork in this Pennsylvania organization—the close teamwork of twenty-two thousand men and women engaged in engineering, building, maintaining and operating the vast and intricate plant needed to render telephone service to more than a million users.

. . . teamwork throughout the nationwide Bell System—the teamwork of twenty-four associated companies which makes available to all, improvements in methods and equipment, whether developed in California or Maine, Texas or Montana.

. . . teamwork with the Bell Laboratories—forty-two hundred scientists and their assistants, whose single objective is better telephone service—better this year than last, better next year than this.

Scientist and lineman, cable splicer and engineer, executive and operator, work towards the same goal—to provide a telephone service free, as far as humanly possible, from imperfections, errors and delays, and enabling at all times, anyone, anywhere to pick up a telephone and talk with anyone else, anywhere else, clearly, quickly and at a reasonable cost.

BLOOD PRESSURE CAUSES DEATH OF ONE-THIRD OF OUR PEOPLE

—Senator Copeland

By administering BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUMS directly into the blood stream their healing virtues are not lost, which is true of medicine given by way of the mouth. This method is becoming obsolete. A great truth comes into view, and that is, intravenous therapy is fast becoming one of the prime autocrats of medicine. A method that is scientific while the results are more certain.

Your White Blood Cells in Health and Disease

BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUMS affect not only one organ but have a corrective influence on every part of the body. One serum frequently gives relief. Chronic and obstinate diseases that have long resisted all forms of treatment readily yield to the action of BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUMS.

We invite you to call for a free consultation, no matter what your ailment is. No doctor charges. Patients pay for the serum only. We are successfully treating Anemia, Asthma, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Kidney and Stomach Trouble, High Blood Pressure, Neuritis, Catarrh of Ears, Nose and Throat, all Blood and Skin Diseases, Laboratory Examination, Blood or Secretions, Free. Come and talk to the patients. Results are what you desire. 35,000 People have taken these Serums at this Laboratory.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Sewickley Girl Announced As 28th Debutante For 1929 Season

WHEN first I heard there were to be 45 debutantes next season I, like many others engrossed in society events as they come day by day, couldn't even guess offhand more than one-tenth, or to be more exact mathematically one-ninth, of the names of this generous bouquet of buds. But since the diminuendo of the season was first noted by ears sensitive to changes in the realm of society, I've discovered who 28 of the debbies will be in 1929. And I know of several others whose parents haven't yet decided whether they'll present their young daughters in 1929 or 1930.

The twenty-eighth debutante of 1929, the last one added so far to my rapidl growing list, is from Sewickley. And this suburb of Pittsburgh, granted the approval of our "400," will present even a larger number of debutantes next season than usual.

Susan Potter O'Neill, daughter of the Chauncey O'Neills, of Beaver road, Sewickley, for the past several years a popular member of the school set, will make her bow next winter. Her father and mother will give a ball for her on December 25, Christmas night (to be redundant) in the Allegheny Country Club. Susan is a Low Heywood School girl. Whether she will make her bow at this ball or at a tea early in the season hasn't been decided yet, I understand.

TO change the subject from debutantes, I wonder if you know that the John Barton Luckies came home yesterday from their wedding trip, spent in Honolulu? They're now at home on Kinsman road. Mrs. Luckie before her recent marriage was Mrs. Ralph G. Clemson.

MANY a bud of this season or a season or two ago attended the Yale Junior prom held Monday night in the University Hall, New Haven. The festivities really opened before the promenade, for the various clubs and societies gave dances in their clunbrooms, attended by the undergraduate students, their guests and members of the alumni.

Two debutantes of this season from Pittsburgh were there—Jane Allderdice, daughter of the Taylor Allderdices, and Louise Latimer Reed, daughter of the W. Edgar Reeds. Another member of the Pittsburgh younger set at the prom was Janet Hardie, daughter of the Walter L. Hardies.

THE Tom M. Girdlers, of Sewickley, will sail Saturday on the Roosevelt for Havana. They'll not return to the States until early March, I've learned.

DOWN at Palm Beach many members of the Pittsburgh colony are popular hosts—and hostesses as the case may be. Mrs. Henry R. Rea, of course, has long been a leader in the social life at Palm Beach. Mrs. Rea gave a dinner before the concert Monday night, presented by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra. She also entertained guests in her box at the concert.

Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander and the Alexander G. Kays were also at the concert, I hear.

* * *

MRS. JAMES CHILDS REA, of Woodland road, has joined fellow townsmen at the fashionable Florida resort. She arrived in Palm Beach yesterday to be the guest of the G. Horton Glovers in their home on El Brillo way.

MIAMI BEACH finds favor with many Pittsburgh folks, too, as well as Palm Beach. Mr. and Mrs. J. Judson Brooks, Jr., of Linden avenue, and their sons, Alfred P. Brooks and John H. Brooks, are at the Lincoln, Palm Beach, did you know?

A PLEASANT interruption in the succession of "eventless" February days was the informal tea Mrs. John Robinson McCune, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Robinson McCune, Jr., and her daughter, Miss Mary McCune, gave yesterday afternoon in Mrs. McCune's home, Fifth and College avenues, for their friends.

Mrs. McCune wore black net, embroidered in gold; her daughter-in-law, silver georgette, trimmed in delicate cream lace, and Miss McCune, blue transparent velvet.

Assisting them in receiving their guests were Mrs. Henry Lee Mason, Jr., Mrs. William S. Flower, Mrs. Sara Flower and Mrs. John Ritchey.

The tea table, lighted by slender tapers, was centered with spring flowers.

FEBRUARY 21 is the date chosen by Miss Nancy Pritchard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pritchard, of Beaver road, Edgeworth, for her marriage to Curtis G. Plies, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Plies, of Mt. Pleasant. Miss Mae Rainsberg, of Philadelphia, will be maid of honor and John Duff, of Rochester, is to be best man. Lawrence Gibb, of Sewickley, and Frank Strobel, of Edgeworth, will be ushers. Mrs. Lawrence Gibb will give a buffet supper tomorrow night in her home for Miss Pritchard.

THE Chinese Students' Club will hold a party for the benefit of famine relief in Northern China Saturday night from 8 to 10:30 o'clock in the recreation hall of the Margaret Morrison Carnegie School. Samuel Fung is chairman. There will be music by a Chinese orchestra.

ELECTA CHAPTER NO. 51, O. E. S., will hold a card party and bake sale Saturday beginning at 2 o'clock in the Pentalpha Club, Arlington avenue. Mrs. Hilda Sippel is chairman for cards; Mrs. Helen Henning, candy, and Mrs. Emma Thomas, bake sale.

The School of Hard Work is the school from which W. G. Clyde was graduated. Twelve hours a day—sixteen—sometimes the whole twenty four—in order to gain the necessary capital of experience for the position he holds today as President of Carnegie Steel Co. It was hard work with a purpose.

Mr. Clyde, along with other leaders in Pittsburgh business and professional life whose editorials the Union Savings Bank is presenting to you, believes in saving with a purpose.

Saving Dispels Worry

Money in the Bank is the Answer to Loss of the Job

by William G. Clyde

THE savings of the American people are a bulwark of the Nation. One of the greatest educating factors in our system of public education is that of school banking, school saving, school funds.

A savings account—money in the bank, has a most comforting faculty of dispelling worry over the loss of the job, or the eternal "chasing of the meal ticket."

Thousands of employes of the U.S. Steel Corporation—men and women—are today part owners of that great business enterprise, because they are stockholders, having accumulated these possessions by thrift—a consistent setting aside of part of their wages or salary each month.

Thrift is one of the greatest virtues of humanity.

The officers of this Bank are always glad to meet depositors and to discuss with them investments or other financial problems in which they are interested or thinking of becoming interested.

Milk and Cocoa

Blended as in our Famous Milk Chocolate

THE milk's already in Peter's Milk Cocoa, blended with the cocoa and sugar just as our famous milk chocolate bar is blended.

You don't cook Peter's Milk Cocoa. You make it right in the cup just by adding hot water. This hot water merely replaces the moisture that has been removed from the milk.

So there is no "cooked taste" of boiled or heated milk—no scorching—no scum. Nothing to impair the chocolate taste. In Peter's you always get the full natural flavor of rich chocolate.

Peter's Milk Cocoa is prepared in the heart of a famous dairy region with an unfailing supply of the freshest, purest, full-cream milk. Its purity and freshness are safeguarded by the most scrupulous inspection and supervision from milking time until Peter's Milk Cocoa is ready for you in vacuum-packed, air-tight tins.

WITH ORDINARY COCOA YOU MUST BUY 3 THINGS SUGAR, COCOA, MILK

WITH PETER'S YOU NEED ONLY HOT WATER

Fresh full-cream milk and fine table sugar are already in it. No bothersome cooking, no scum, no scorching, no pans to wash.

dent of the Synagogue Council of America.

ALL SECTIONS REPRESENTED

To symbolize the wiping out of sectional border lines, prominent men from the North and South and East and West were included, such as the late Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama; the late Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin; Curtis D. Wilbur, of California, secretary of the Navy, and Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York. Dr. Robert R. Moton, president of Tuskegee Institute for Colored Persons, was also placed on the board Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, former president of the General Federation of Womens' Clubs, was another member.

Therefore, as the founders of the association represented men and women of every creed, color, race and section, just so will both boys and girls of all races, sections and creeds be permitted to take part in the unusual contest.

The country has been zoned into 18 regions for the purposes of this Contest, because there are 18 cities in which the 28 Hearst newspapers are published. From each of these regions a boy and a girl winner will be chosen. The local contests will be under the sponsorship of school authorities or the heads of one of the more important patriotic societies. The school or organization champions will compete for the regional awards. The winners in each of the regional divisions will be taken to Washington as guests of the Hearst Newspapers. From this group will be chosen the boy and girl who win the grand award—a three-months' trip around the world with all expenses paid and an elaborate travel wardrobe and adequate spending money furnished.

MANY MEDALS

In addition to the travel prizes, there will be many medals and certificates of honorable mention to the various runners-up.

From Washington the regional champions will be taken for a week's trip to some of the more important cities and villages in the East, where are spots which have seen important events in the early history of the nation. There will be visits to Valley Forge, to Independence Hall and Betsy Ross' home in Philadelphia, a journey to Mt. Vernon, and to Fort McHenry near Baltimore, where Francis Scott Key wrote his immortal anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner."

The association already has sent invitations to many school authorities and patriotic leaders in all parts of the nation, requesting that they conduct Contests in their communities. However, in event some one in your own section has not already made arrangements to take charge of this contest, ask your teacher or the head of such an organization as the American Legion, the Boy Scouts or the Daughters of the American Revolution to communicate at once with the Flag Contest Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for full details and the requisite authority to take charge of the contest locally.

GOLDEN CHANCE

Boys and girls—remember that here you have a golden opportunity to win this coveted prize—the trip around the world. Fancy the envy you will create in the minds of your juvenile friends should you be the lucky one to make this glorious three-months' journey. Think of it—you'd see China, Japan, India, Italy, the Mediterranean, Paris, London, etc.

Worth getting busy on, isn't it? Watch this newspaper for details.

BELLEVUE BURGESS WARS ON FILM POSTERS

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

EXTRACTS FROM THE MAIL BAG: A complaint about the conditions of Pittsburgh's sidewalks in the vicinity of Gazzam Gables, Soho; Dutch Hill, and many sections of Mt. Washington. . . . A letter from McKees Rocks proposing that Honus Wagner be nominated and elected to public office. . . . Comment on the merits and demerits of the column from a woman who recalls she met the writer one stormy night in 1914 in Battle Creek, Mich. . . . This must have been two other fellows for in 1914 I was a reporter for the Tri-State News Bureau and anyone can tell you that the bureau was not in the habit of letting its young gentlemen of the press stray so far away from home. . . . From Connellsville: A correction in a name used here, Downing was the name and not Downey as it was here reported. . . . A letter from Greenville, Pa., which in effect seconds the motion that something should be done for Honus Wagner. . . . A letter asking that something be done about grade crossings. . . . A note about the Etna Firemen's entertainment from A. W. Bendig. . . . An invitation from Louis F. S. Cook to attend an anniversary smoker of the Pittsburgh Council, K. of C. . . . A letter from Grafton Duvall telling how the Boy Scouts will observe the nineteenth anniversary of their organizations, beginning February 19. . . . An invitation from Charles Schmidt to attend the doings of an organization known as the Yellow Dogs to be held in the Braddock Elks home tomorrow night. . . . A suggestion to interview a bootblack in a downtown bootery. . . . The correspondent refers to the bootblack as a bootician, for which he is charged with an error. . . . A bootician is one who sells hootch, the term coming, possibly, from the suggestion offered by another word, mortician.

No pessimist is William T. Mossman, of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, who in an article in the Pittsburgh Record, magazine published by the University of Pittsburgh, tells how Pittsburgh is situated for transportation of our products. In the main, Mr. Mossman dwells on the river transportation, noting, however, that Pittsburgh is fortunate in having available all four methods of transportation—railways, waterways, highways and airways.

GEORGE STENGEL, a veteran of Pittsburgh, a former councilman, and former register of wills, recalls vividly the first page of a Pittsburgh paper published February 15, 1898, on which were only two items. The first was the story that the United States had declared war on Spain and the second told that Mr. Stengel had been defeated in the Twentieth Ward election for Common Council by three votes.

There is a sameness about the all-night restaurants of the town. The night cashier is a man in his sixties. There is a newspaperman eating "lunch," about 2 o'clock in the morning. There is a cold taxicab driver getting a cup of coffee. There is a vaudeville team getting sandwiches and there is a waitress, generally, who knows not only the chefs by their first names, but sometimes calls a customer or so by his nickname Of all participants in this early morning tableau the night cashier, who somehow seems to have missed out some place in life, is by far the most interesting.

GOV. FISHER AFFIRMS STAND

Burgess William J. Longmore, of Bellevue, has opened war on "objectionable" posters in front of movie theaters in the borough, he disclosed in his monthly message to council last night.

He has been assured by state authorities in Harrisburg, he says, that the borough has jurisdiction, and that he will act to prevent posting of "improper" posters.

"I have complained to Gov. Fisher regarding the indecent and immoral posters that appear in front of moving picture theaters," said the burgess in his report, "and asked for advice as to what jurisdiction I had for having this practice discontinued.

"I am advised by the department at Harrisburg that we have jurisdiction in the matter, under the law, and can have it eliminated, which I propose to do.

The pictures referred to were a menace to the morals of school children, the burgess declared. Several times he has personally ordered posters removed in the last several months, he said.

"We all like moving pictures," declared the burgess, "when they are interesting, amusing or instructive, but we certainly are not in favor of the kind mentioned.

Doesn't Want Him, That's All, Wife Asks Divorce

Making no accusations of misconduct or mistreatment against her husband, yet declaring vehemently in Common Pleas Court that she does not want him back, Mrs. Willie C. Coker, 5519 Claybourne street, East End, cast an air of mystery about her suit for divorce when it was heard before Judge Frank P. Patterson.

George T. Coker, a Kentuckian, married her December 23, 1920, after his return from overseas service. A year and a half later, living on his government allowance, he entered the University of Pittsburgh, and they took up their residence at the Claybourne street address. For three and a half years he attended the university, and then, six months before he would have won his degree, he set out for school one morning and did not come back. He wrote her a letter, merely saying he would explain, but she has never seen or heard from him since.

RUM SOLD TO SON, KILLED; KIN WOULD PUNISH MAN

Andy Hrach, 55, 841 Vista street, North Side, was held for court today by Magistrate George England in North Side Police Court, charged with violating the Snyder act.

Behind it is the desire of Daniel Flanagan, 860 Western avenue, North Side, to see punishment meted the man he believes sold liquor to his son, Alexander R. Flanagan, 19, the night the latter was killed in an automobile accident.

Hrach was arrested yesterday following a raid on his place by Lieut. James Callaghan on information made by Flanagan. At the hearing today, Flanagan told how his son and Jane A. Charles, 17, 512 Sherman avenue, North Side, were killed early in the morning of January 7, when the car in which they were riding, driven by John F. Flinner, struck a pole in Brighton road. Flinner resides at 83 North Lincoln avenue, North Side.

Flinner, yesterday, held for court on a charge of manslaughter by a coroner's jury, was at the hearing today. He testified that he was with young Flanagan in Hrach's place the night of the accident and that Hrach sold Flanagan liquor. The elder Flanagan believes that the liquor caused the wreck in which his son was killed.

Curtains, Oodles Of 'Em, Bother Queen Mary

LONDON, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—The troubles of the average housewife, magnified perhaps a hundred times, occasionally beset Queen Mary. She has found that new curtains are required for Buckingham Palace. That means more than 900 pairs of different kinds. The king always has plain net in his rooms, the queen herself chooses silk, and the Duke of Gloucester has a penchant for gober hued damask.

Prince George wants gay chintz, and the tastes of the multitudinous members of the palace staff are as diversified. They are all consulted as to what they want, and the queen then does the ordering herself.

BOARD REFUSES TO DROP CASE

Baldwin Township School Board at its regular meeting held in the Union School last night decided to take the Six Mile Ferry road school case to the Supreme Court, after a delegation of citizens presented a petition urging the board not to take the case any higher, but to proceed with the building of the school at once.

This case, which had been before the public for the past year, received a setback several months ago when Judge Frank B. Patterson in a decision ruled the school board illegally awarded the contract for the erection of the school to the third lowest bidder instead of the lowest.

The board appealed the case, and before the full bench, Judges John A. Evans, James D. Carnahan and Patterson, sustained Judge Patterson decision, upholding the citizens' bill of equity.

MORNINGSIDE BOYS PROUD TO CARRY SUN-TELEGRAPH

William A. Sharrer, of 6915 Standish street, agent for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in the Morningside district, has been in business for 16 years, and in all that time not one of the newsboys who receive papers from him has quit because of dissatisfaction with his pay or treatment.

When the propaganda was started recently that news dealers do not treat their employes fairly—that the boys need "protection"—some of Mr. Sharrer's former boys, now grown up, came to him and said:

"Mr. Sharrer, if you would like to combat this propaganda, nothing would give us greater pleasure than to tell the world, from our personal experience, how kind and considerate you have always been to the youngsters who carry papers for you."

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph boys in the Morningside district are clean, well dressed, self-respecting children. None of them will ever be found in rags. Mr. Sharrer would not rest quiet if he found any of the boys in need of clothing.

The boys earn good wages through a few hours' work after school, delivering the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Many of them buy their own clothes, help their mothers meet the household expenses, and have spending money left.

The mother of one of the boys meets him with a market basket every Saturday morning when he draws his pay. He turns over some of his money to her, and she buys the Sunday provisions with it.

These boys handle the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph exclusively, of the Pittsburgh evening and Sunday papers. The agent of another paper tried to persuade them to quit the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, but all refused. They are loyal to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and to Mr. Sharrer.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.

Reed Smoot is being "hexed" again with his cheap foreign sugar. To Smoot the Spanish-American War was our greatest blunder, for both countries we freed grew sugar.

Kellogg can make peace or war, the Mississippi states can wash to the sea, liquors from the four corners of the earth can arrive untariffed, hides and T-bone steaks from the Argentine, wheat from Russia, but Reed Smoot prowls the docks at night to see that no "sweetening" is smuggled in.

When Smoot gets through raising the tariff on sugar, Lindbergh couldn't fly over it with a box of chocolates. Where Brigham Young's monument was erected from old marriage certificates, Smoot's will be made entirely of sugar beets.

Yours, WILL.

WHO'S GUILTY??? CAN YOU SOLVE THIS DETECTIVE STORY?

BILL

By Evelyn Johnson and Gretta Palmer

IT SO happened I was recently visiting my friends, the Moores, who dwell in the hilly section of West Virginia. I invariably enjoy my quiet stay amongst them. They are quiet unpretentious people with a sort of mountain humor. Their outstanding characteristic is love of sport—horse-racing, betting and the like. They dwell some miles from the lazy village of Sparkdale.

In contrast with the generally hilarious and happy greeting, all was somber when the rickety flivver of uncertain vintage deposited me before the comfortable farmhouse. Mrs. Moore met me wiping her eyes on her apron. Her first question was:

"You remember Bill?"

Surely I remembered Bill.

"Well, he's dead, Arthur. And I think he's been deliberately murdered."

THIS was shocking news. She was obviously so upset, as was Mr. Moore, who came to greet me shortly, that were there another train from Sparkdale that evening I should surely have fled the atmosphere of gloom. Poor Bill had naturally been nothing in my life, but the spirit of the dead was so dominant at the farmhouse that I knew my presence was not as welcome as usual, nor did I care to reside in the pall which seemed to have descended.

Bill had died the day before, and his body lay in an unfinished pine coffin, that Moore had fashioned with his own hands.

"You see," Moore explained, when I had settled down in a comfortable chair and the never-failing mint julep had been established in my hand, "he only died yesterday evening."

"If you suspect foul play, why not call the police?" I asked.

"THERE'S more in this than meets the eye," he replied dolefully. "You see, our Bill was goin' to fight Jed Marner's Alec tomorrow. You know these finish fights ain't allowed, and constable's mighty strict. I know that somehow Jed done this. We had a right hefty bet up, and some scout o' his has told him Bill's too good. That is, was to good. I knowed that right along." Pride swelled up and triumphed over sorrow for a moment. He continued. "I don't know how he did it, for I've always been careful about havin' him around the place. But he done it somehow. Bill spewed up somethin' afore he died and the doctor said it looked like a mixture of gravel and somethin' poisonous that he hasn't had analyzed yet."

"TELL me," I said, bristling with excitement at the chance to bring my detective abilities into play. "This is sparse country. It seems pretty certain if he poisoned him he must have got the poison into the place somehow. He couldn't approach the place in daytime, and while Bill was in training I suppose he stayed pretty close to home."

"I'm positive he didn't meet up with Bill outside o' the place. He couldn't come around in broad daylight without us a-seein' him, and at night he'd have to poison a couple of hounds before he could get near."

"HE was close as Sam Shackle's the day Bill died," interrupted Mrs. Moore. "Him and that lousy little brat of his, I know that 'cause I was needin' to go to town for some things and saw him drive up to Sam's. I was wishin' he was neighborly for I didn't want to go down town havin' so much to do about the place. But seein' as it was Jed I phoned down. Sam interrupted on the party wire but I told him to get off. Then I called up the grocer and asked him to stay open a few minutes later'n usual and told him to lay out what I wanted. I hopped in the car a little while later and Jed musta gone to town ahead o' me, for when I come out with my arms fulla packages, he was just comin' in with some o' his. He knocked 'em all outa my arms and picked 'em up for me, grinning wide. 'Mongst the thing I bo't was a kind o' loose cornmeal that Bill used to like so much. I noticed Jed had a pack o' that too. Sez I to him, 'Figurin' to make a fighter out o' Alec by a-feedin' him that? You know what's one's meat's another's poison.' He sorta grins slow at that, and takes off his hat mockin' like and leaves. I see him tearing hell-for-leather up the road. He stops at Sam's a minute to pick up that boy of his. I just remember now—I meant to tell Jed to give that brat the tannin' of his life. The little wretch is settin' up on the fence with a air rifle. High powered and dangerous it was too, the kind you pump up. The little devil deliberate takes a pot shot at me. Luckily that bag o' meal I got fer Bill caught the shot. There it is in the corner. Naturally we didn't open it, fer Bill died 'fore I had a chance to fix him any. Bill was in yard but didn't notice the commotion. However he comes up to me gleeful like when he sees the package. He was a wise old bird and spotted that in spite of the wrappin' I guess. I sez, 'Come on along, pal, and I'll fix you something nice.' He didn't come right away, but stays to putter round with somethin' in the yard. A minute later he staggers up to the kitchen steps, makes a sort of choking noise and falls stone dead. In the excitement I clean forgot about goin' back after that brat."

Solution of Yesterday's 'Mr. Tutby's Good Pearl'

MR. WESTERMORE deliberately knocked the book off the table, and, as both he and Mr. Tutby leaned over, grabbed a pearl. In his hand he had a wad of chewing gum. With this he stuck the pearl to to the under side of the table, while they continued their discussion. It was easy enough to recover the pearl on his second visit when he knocked his hat over.

NANCY DEANE By Roy L. Foley

Nancy Is Happy When Her Friends Make a Fuss About the O'Days

CHAPTER XXVII.

FOR the life of her Nancy couldn't have told anyone why she so dreaded meeting Mrs. Deane, why she had such a terror of anyone's discovering her true relationship to these people of wealth, influence, family. Whenever she thought of the Deanes or heard the name mentioned, her mind flew to dear old Maggie O'Day. Had Nancy known it, she was subconsciously afraid that if Mrs. Deane claimed her she might separate her from Muddy O'Day. The cottage seemed the more precious to her now there was danger of her losing it.

Vic Flemming was waiting in front of The Carmondy when Nancy arrived home. As she came up the street, back of him, she recognized his car, his light gray hat, turned down all around. The thought of driving to Washington in that car struck Nancy with terror as she hurried toward it. She hoped it would be dusk when they arrived.

"Hello there, Vic," she said and her cheery voice gave no indication of her thoughts.

"Lo there, Goldie Locks," Vic answered. "I hear you're the hit of the revue and you're already made one girl so jealous she's started a big row. I'll say you're progressing. Say, how about letting me be your press agent. I'll have Ziegfeld and Ed Wynn fightin' for your services."

Nancy wished Vic wouldn't call her Goldie Locks. She wished he wouldn't be so familiar, so full of bluster; too much of the so-called pep that some of the young men she knew were always exhibiting, tired her.

She had told Vic she thought that sort of thing was cheap in a man or a girl. But Vic only laughed and said she was the queerest little devil he had ever known and that the more she scolded the more intriguing she was. In other words, he just wouldn't believe she was serious. She amused him, he said, and he kept right on calling her Goldie Locks.

It was puzzling, too, Nancy thought—after she was with Vic awhile she forgot all his glaring faults. There was something about him whole-hearted and generous. His sensibilities were not as fine as Howard Wescott's, but she doubted if he ever could be guilty of Wescott's deadly anger or of his metallic coldness toward some people.

It was dusk when Vic's big car drew into Washington, even though he had raced with the setting sun. He said that he wanted to take her to the Conway Hotel for dinner.

How familiar that sounded to Nancy. Every day of her life, almost, she had passed the Conway. When she was a little girl it represented all that was elegant to her.

On only rare occasions had she eaten in the big dining room when she worked in Washington, and then it had been an event. She didn't answer Vic right away. She was thinking whether she should ask him to drive her to the O'Day cottage.

No, that would never do. If the neighbors ever saw her getting out of that car after the news had spread that she was a model, there was no telling what the gossips would say. Nancy could imagine the faces peering from behind every lace curtain on Maple avenue for a block on either side of the O'Day household.

Besides, how would Mud and Darry take Vic. That, too, had to be considered.

Nancy was in a quandary. To stop at The Conway for supper seemed just too heartless when the two people dearest to her in all the world were sitting down to their own simple supper only a short distance away. And they were lonesome, too.

Mrs. O'Day's letters, blunt and brave as they were, so much like Mrs. O'Day herself, told her between the lines, more plainly than words ever could, that she and Darry had never been more lonely in all their lives.

Should she go straight home? Should she invite Vic in to share supper with her Muddy and her Darry? They would be eating in the kitchen just about this time, having their tea, and they would be using the familiar blue and white checked tablecloth.

Could she invite Vic in to that?

Nancy was ashamed for even hesitating to ask any of her friends to come into the O'Day household, and yet it wasn't so much that she didn't want Vic to come in as that she didn't want Mud and Darry to see him before until she had seen them first.

"Why so silent?" Vic asked, "you haven't told me what you want to do. Where do you want to eat? How does the old home town look to you anyway?"

They were passing some of the college buildings. How beautiful the campus looked, how familiar every tree and every house was. She was home again, and it was a lovely feeling, but as Nancy looked at these familiar trees and the houses she knew so well, she realized this place was her home no longer, that it never would be. The feeling came to her that she had been cut off from it. It brought a lump to her throat.

"What I want you to do, Vic, is to let me out about a block from the hotel. You go and get a bite to eat, will you Vic? And then call for me at a quarter to eight. On Maple avenue."

She gave him the house number.

Vic's face was a study. When Nancy started to make her strange request he was just on the verge of sneezing. The shock of her words was so much that he forgot to sneeze. He held his handkerchief in mid air, his mouth open.

"Huh? What's that?" he asked incredulously.

"Vic, please don't think I'm crazy, but I want you to do this. Will you Vic? Don't ask me why, please don't ask me why."

"Let you out, here, alone? How do I know I'll ever see you again?" Vic said. "That's the funniest idea I ever heard."

"Vic, are you my friend?" Nancy said.

"I'm more than your friend! Friend isn't the word; I'm your slave. Eh, kiddo? You like me a little. Say you do."

"Of course I like you, Vic. And if you like me as you say you do you'll trust me enough to do what I ask."

Vic did what she asked. There was no resisting her. In a moment she was gone, swallowed in the darkness.

"I'll be d—," he said.

Nancy ran up the stairs of the cottage, three steps at a time. The front door was unlocked. The O'Days never locked their doors, day or night. She flung it open. The parlor was empty. The dear old parlor, with its shabby green velvet sofa and its shiny coal stove with the rag rug in front of it. Nancy gave a swift glance about the room, loving every familiar object. The smell of fresh-ly-baked bread filled the house. How delicious it was.

"O-o-o-o!" she called. "Oh, Mud; oh, Darry!"

"Glory be, an' there you are at last, my Colleen."

Mrs. O'Day's ample form was in the kitchen doorway, and just behind her (ever and ever behind her) was Darry.

Nancy tried to hug them both at once. She tried to look at everything in the cleanly-scoured kitchen. She tried to absorb it all, as though she had been away from something she loved for years and years, as though she was hungry, body and soul for these familiar things.

"What's all this we're hearin' about my Colleen?" Mud was saying.

"The papers was full of you're being at some the-ayter the other night, and it said you got an o-o-ovation. What in the name of heaven is one of those things. An' what do you mean sendin' $15 in the mail this mornin'? Now where did you get all that money?"

"Oh Muddy, Darry, I'll tell you all about it after while. It's so glorious to be here again. It seems as though I have been away for years and that I was never going to see you again. I'll tell you everything that's happened since I left home, everything. But let me look around first. I want to go into the parlor and I want to go up to my room."

Nancy stood in the middle of the kitchen floor, her hands clasped, happiness in every feature. She looked at the oven door. Still broken. Still held together by Muddy's invention. No. It was well she hadn't brought Vic here.

She wanted to be alone with Mud and Darry this hour or so before she had to rush to the theater.

"That's a pretty fancy outfit you're wearing, ain't it?" Darry remarked after they had persuaded her to sit down to the kitchen table and drink some tea.

Nancy looked at her dress. It was a cast off Ginger's, sheer and short, an importation from Paris that Ginger had wheedled out of Ziegelbaum.

"This, oh, this—"

Nancy didn't know quite how to explain the dress. She disliked to tell these old people that it was borrowed.

"It's a dress that Mr. Ziegelbaum, the man who is putting on these style revues, wanted me to wear," she said, "he likes his models—that is, he likes his girls to look well when they come into a town. He told me to wear this. It isn't mine."

Then she turned to Mrs. O'Day:

"You'd better be getting dressed now. I want you to look your very best at the theater. And you too, Darry. Go put on your collar. And shine your shoes, be sure and get the heels good and black."

How she thrilled at managing these two again, at bustling about them, half bossing, as though they were children. Loving them every minute. Heart-sick for them now. She didn't know why.

The Washington show was a repetition of the success, but as far as Nancy was concerned the previous revue was very mild.

Nancy in her "Debutante" was applauded again and again. Ziegelbaum, back stage, was running about. Such a thing as a model being applauded like this was unheard of. A style revue wasn't a performance of the Greenwich Village Follies. He couldn't understand it.

But Ginger did. Ginger, garbed again in the tight fitting black velvet, knew Nancy was a gorgeous looking girl, that she had never been dressed becomingly before, and that now, under the stage lights, gowned beautifully, her head a mass of tumbled gold, that she was an entrancing vision.

It occurred to Ginger, too, that Nancy needed no coaching in the art of wearing clothes, or in the way to walk across a stage.

After the show was over Nancy was the center of attention back of the curtain. This time Ginger clung close to her, on the defensive, her ears open for any slighting, jealous remarks from Maybelle Montague or her kind.

How out of place Mud and Darry looked back in the wings. When Nancy brought them to meet her friends, to be introduced to Ziegelbaum. They were standing there now. Mud in her queer old hat with its bobbing rose, and Darry with the toes of his shoes turning up ridiculously.

Ziegelbaum, Ginger, Vic, some of the other girls, all wrung the old people's hands, sincerely, honestly happy to meet Nancy's parents. Nancy herself watched every movement of these three. Right then she loved Ziegelbaum for the way he met the O'Days, for the fuss he made over them. The way he hung on to Darry's rough hand, patting him on the shoulder and saying:

"It e-e-e-s very fine girl you have Mr. O'Day, such a beautiful girl."

And Ginger's faults, all of them, dissolved before Nancy's eyes when she kissed Maggie O'Day.

Vic, too. Vic, for all his loud clothes and his flashy ways. Vic was splendid, too.

Nancy was never nearer heaven in her life. The tears were beginning to come. She fled to a dressing room to hide them.

There was no John Blair at this revue.

Nancy had felt all along that he would be there, in fact he said he would in a note received the day before. While she was walking across the stage and down the runway she was positive he must be somewhere, studying her. He would come back stage again.

But he didn't. His absence left her with a vacant, somewhat disappointed feeling. She had wanted him there.

Just before she had kissed Mrs. O'Day good night after the revue, the latter had said:

"That Blair fellow was to see us last night. He sez to tell you he was called away sudden."

No, with all the success of the evening, Nancy wasn't completely happy.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Regulate Home and Office Temperature

DR. COPELAND

IT is important to keep the air of the home fresh and sweet. This is just as necessary in the winter time in northern climates as it is in the summer. You know how quickly flowers will droop and die unless they have fresh, cool air. If it is too cold they freeze just as your family would, but if you exercise common sense in such matters, you and yours will thrive.

I cannot resist saying that man does use common sense in almost everything except the care of his health. It would seem the natural thing to look after the body, to give it the same attention that plants, the automobile and the golf clubs have. But the body does not get one half the attention that most of our material possessions receive.

Endless experiements have been made in an attempt to find out what degree of temperature is best for health. As in almost everything else, science has forced us to revise a lot of our old ideas.

It is believed now that what we usually describe as over-heating does not decrease the power to work. The ability to do hard work is present, but the inclination to do it is not there.

In either case the result is the same. It takes a lot of character for a man to work when he doesn't feel like it. It requires the stimulation cool air gives the skin, to whip the unwilling spirit into eagerness to work.

On this account the living and workrooms should be kept fairly cool. Most writers mention 68 degrees as the proper temperature. That is too low to suit me. For my comfort and happiness 70 or 72 degrees is about right.

Not only is temperature important, but the moisture or humidity of the air must be considered. If the air is too dry it is irritating and distressing. The skin and other tissues of the body lose moisture, because it is expelled into the air. In consequence the nose and mouth feel dry and parched.

A pan of water placed on the stove, the radiator, or in connection with the hot air furnace, will help a lot to give moisture to the air. Open windows overcome the drying effects of heating. A narrow space at top or bottom of the window will do much to give the proper amount of humidity. If this is covered by a screen of cloth it will break unpleasant drafts of air.

Free movement of the air is important. This stimulates the skin and does much to prevent unpleasant effects of a warm atmosphere.

Sunlight is essential. Dust and vapors should be guarded against.

Give thought to these things and the winter will pass without the ill effects it may have produced in other years.

SLEIGH SENTIMENT -:- -:- By Truda Dahl

©1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

AT FIRST thought you might believe that I mean to slay sentiment. But I don't, truly! For I never could bear to kill anything so beautiful and so really necessary to a happy life as sentiment. For it is, you know. Without it life's hardly worth living.

No, the kind of sentiment I mean is the kind that is supposed to have gone completely out of style. The style that held two hearts spellbound as the miles slid 'neath the runners of an old-fashioned sleigh and time meant less than nothing.

What could be sweeter than two in a sleigh underneath a gleaming moon with the sleighbells singing a happy accompaniment to the old, old story? That's the kind of sleigh sentiment I mean! But how difficult it is nowadays in this crowded era of motors and rush and hurry. However, when you get a chance, slip off somewhere and try it, and I know you'll never regret the "sleigh sentiment" that will bring you love and happiness for the rest of your life.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

When Man Gets a Big Surprise

A MAN is always being "surprised" by a woman!

He is surprised when he finds himself engaged to her, surprised when he discovers that she has married him, and helplessly astonished when she finds him out. But he is positively DUMBFOUNDED when she keeps her promise—and leaves him all alone in the world!

* * *

HELEN ROWLAND

The hardest thing in the world for a man to realize is that a woman really means it, when she says she is "through!" He just can't BELIEVE that any woman would actually leave him to clean his own brushes, pick up his own pajamas, or sign his own letters, as long as she merely "threatens."

* * *

No matter how much "notice" his wife or his stenographer may give him, he never actually takes her seriously until he wakes up some morning and finds a note pinned to his wife's empty pillow—or his stenographer's desk closed and her sweater gone from the back of her chair.

As long as a man can prevail upon a woman to "change her mind once more," he goes blissfully and peacefully on, in the sweet childlike confidence that it was all "just chatter." Or "her nerves!"

* * *

His stenographer might give him daily "notice" for two years, instead of a mere two weeks, yet he wouldn't think of starting to hunt for another, until she was ready to put on her hat.

His wife may give him "warning," every other day, that she "is not going to stand it another 24 hours," yet he won't try to find out where she keeps the aspirin or the can-opener, until her baggage leaves the house.

* * *

And even after he has seen his wife's trunks go out of the door, or has watched his stenographer close her desk and walk out with battle in her eye—he still listens for her returning footsteps, in the fond belief that she will walk right back in again.

* * *

The truth is that no man can understand how a woman who has once loved him or worked for him, can ever STOP loving him or working for him, no matter WHAT he may do to dishearten her or torment her or worry her.

* * *

And he is never in the least surprised, when the woman who has "left him forever" calls him up next morning and tells him that she is taking the next train back!

Correct Manners

Secret Marriages

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please help me, as I am very much in doubt how to proceed.

I was married about two months ago but my marriage was kept secret. Now I am wondering how an announcement should be made. Should announcements, in the conventional form, be sent to relatives and friends, or should only a newspaper announcement be made, or both? Will you please tell me the correct form to use?

The marriage was a very quiet affair being performed at the minister's home in a town where we are not known.

A READER.

FOR the announcement of your marriage I recommend that you use no formal kind of announcements, for this merely serves to emphasize the unconventionality of your marriage. I advise that you tell your close friends, and write those whom you cannot tell, who live out of town. And don't worry that the news will spread soon enough.

Introductions

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

If I am in a public place, sitting down, and an elderly lady stops to speak to me, should I rise?

2. I am acquainted with an elderly lady, and as I have always known her I call her by her first name. If I were introducing her to a younger girl, which would be proper: "Miss Brown, this is my friend Mary" or "Anne, this is my friend Mary?" Is it all right to introduce people that way?

3. Would it be all right for me to call my friend "Anne" before somebody that has just been introduced to her?

4. Is it proper to thank anyone for sending a card or telephoning?

5. If a person asked a question which must be answered, but which the person does not wish to answer, what is the best thing to do?

ELIZABETH.

YES.

2. No, neither form of introduction would be in good taste or in good form. Say, "Mrs. Allen, Miss Brown."

3. Yes, if you are used to calling her by her first name.

4. Yes, always.

5. In this difficult position, we can first say: "Must I really answer that?" or "I should so much prefer not to answer this question. Do you really insist that I should?"

In Poor Taste

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I recently became engaged to be married and left the matter of the printing of the announcements to my fiance, and he had them printed as follows:

Mr. Henry Jones
Miss Ruth Smith
betrothed
Thursday, November twenty-ninth
Nineteen Hundred and Twenty eight
Chicago, Illinois

Is the above form correct? It is my belief that the lady's name should come first. Am I right?

R. S.

SUCH formal announcements of engagements are not in good form, but I should think that it would be better to have the girl's name first. Perhaps your fiance was thinking of "Mr. and Mrs."

LOVE'S AWAKENING -:- A CONTINUATION OF LOVE'S EMBERS

By ADELE GARRISON

Katie Dragged Into Conspiracy to Help Madge and Dicky

KATIE is as efficient and quick of perception as she is temperamental. She wasted no words after her first gasp of "Oh, Meesie Graham, vot ees eet?" when I told her that I must see her alone in her room before the rest of the family came in. With quick, deft movements she insured her dinner from burning and then scurried up the back staircase ahead of me, throwing open the door to the rooms which she and Jim have occupied for so long.

"You seet down?" She drew forward a chair, but I waved it back.

"I haven't time. First I want you to promise me that you will not tell any one, even Jim, what I am going to ask you."

Into her eyes came the familiar gleam of thrilled excitement, and she raised her right hand melodramatically. I knew that I had taken the right course to insure Katie fealty.

"I swear me on two tree stacks of Bibles," she said.

"Then listen. Mary dropped her case in the hall this morning and I picked it up before we left. There is a reason why Mr. Graham and I wished to look it over before letting her find it again—and I gave it to Mr. Graham. He did not know that you had looked in that place on the stairs where Junior used to stuff his toys, and he hid it in there after he came home. Now if Mary looks there as she is very likely to do, will you say that you didn't have a flashlight with you or that your eyes are troubling you, or something of the sort, so that she will think it really was there all the time."

Katie's face clouded.

"My eyes, dey tip top," she said jealously, "und ven I look, I look. But—" she straightened herself and spread her hands magnanimously. "I guess I no shoomp sidevays ofer vun leetle vite lie. Don't you vorry vun bit more, Meesis. Shoost leave eet to Katie. I feex, und say nodings to nobody."

"I fox!" The cheery, familiar phrase brought many memories of times when the woman looking eagerly at me had brought comfort to me in many a trying situation. I dropped my hand on her shoulder affectionately.

"I knew I could depend on you, Katie dear," I said. "Now go back to your kitchen, and I'll slip through these doors to my own room."

There are old-fashioned double floors leading from the wing over the kitchen in which the rooms of Katie and Jim are situated, and the main part of the second floor. I stole through them cautiously, feeling much like a housebreaker, and gained my own room without anyone seeing me. With the conviction that I needed a few minutes to nerve myself for the role of pleased spectator when Mary should find her case, I locked my door, and hurrying off my clothing, took a quick ice cold sponge, recoiled my hair and slipped on fresh lingerie and a thin gown with matching shoes and hose.

I could hear the voices of the rest of the party come into the corridor and then die away, and knew from their chatter that Dicky and Harry were headed for one shower, Mary and Marion for the other and that Lillian was probably following my method of freshening up. My last injunction to Katie had been to delay the dinner gong for 15 minutes, and when it finally rang, we met in the dining room both refreshed and ravenous.

It was not until Katie was clearing away the dessert that Mary put the question I had nervously awaited all during the dinner.

"Katie, did you say you looked in every corner of the halls and on the stairs for my case?"

ACCORDING to the propitious rule of the stars on this day much progress may be expected in the professional and intellectual avocations and occupations as well as in the more substantial employments of Saturn, such as real estate, agriculture, mining and things to do with machinery. All such should flourish. In personal, domestic and affectional affiliations, as well as art and music, unusual or unorthodox experiences or contacts may be looked for.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of prosperity and progress, especially if they are engaged in professional, literary, musical or artistic pursuits. Also, lands, crops and mining should flourish. It is a propitious time for renewing contracts in these avocations and industries.

A child born on this day may be expected to be brilliant, versatile in art, literature, music and invention, and also be diligent and hard-working. It's purely personal relations may not prove monotonous, but rather spectacular.

In love the heavens themselves do guide the state; money buys land, and wives are sold by fate. —Shakespeare.

PENNSYLVANIA DINERS

"I hate a man who swallows it, affecting not to know what he is eating. I suspect his taste in higher matters". . .

So wrote Charles Lamb of a dish far less prized by epicures than this Pennsylvania specialty. For in this, two royal flavors blend—the mellow richness of mushrooms—the delicacy of sweetbreads with tart but subtle undertones of bayleaf, butter, onion, carrot, and celery.

It's a feast for the eye as well!—when it is set before you—sprinkled with finely chopped fresh parsley—on crisp toast—piping hot—with gravy.

Delicate and tender—melting in your mouth—it is yet so rich and flavorful that it furnishes the most satisfying of meals and leaves the most pleasant of memories.

All this week on Pennsylvania dining cars, epicures will enjoy the rarity. Ask for it—Braised Sweetbreads with Fresh Mushrooms.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

JUAN VAQUERO

By A. JACKSON MORAN

HE had been marked for life as a dangerous man, known as a murderer at 18, denounced as a radical enemy of all governments, and 15 years a fugitive from Spanish law. A powerful, hairy-chested, fierce-looking, brute-like man. Such was Juan Vaquero.

Of his 15 fugitive years, most of them had been spent on "Lost Island." Lost in name, and, in reality lost to the world at large; far off the modern traversed sea lanes, with only one ship making the island a port of call—the mail steamer that called twice each month.

A few miles in length, narrow and curved at one end, resembling a shepherd's crook. Through the middle, a chain of low, green, vine-clad hills, knotted and gnarled. In truth, just a spot of green in the Pacific's south latitude.

Although Vaquero had been marked for life as a radical and dangerous man, he was now child-like in his devotion, love. Perhaps it was sympathetic love for another such as himself—an outcast. And that unblemished love was for his child-wife, a dark, beautiful, slender, timid little creature. He had named her "Flor Mia" in his native Spanish.

She too loved Juan, loved him with her very life, in her own timid and odd little way. Juan's kindness had been the only kindness in her life, an outcast by birth, for she was of the East and the West, and socially of neither—Eurasian.

It was not until his marriage that Juan had moved to his present home in the clearing on the high knoll; in the very heart of a swaying cocoanut grove, standing somewhat above and beyond the end of the dust laden village street. From this point one looked down through the entire village, a home second only to that of the governor himself.

Truly that was Juan's present position, not by appointment but in the esteem and confidence of the people an accomplishment covering 15 years.

Often in these later days Vaquero hesitated to ponder over his past life, and to reflect of his present position. Here he was a leader, in civilization a dangerous man. His memory slipped back to his first years on the island, before the gentle change had come over his life. It was then, (those earlier years) he drank, cursed, and amid his drunken curses had cried out many times in painful anger. "I Vaquero, fear neither man, nor beast, nor law."

So through his delirious and maniacal cries of anger and drink he had gained the natives' confidence.

And now on the island he once had hated all had changed, Juan was happy, supremely happy, he cared not for the day of the month or the year; he wished only to live happily on and on into the future. But no—life is not like that. Nor was Juan's.

The day following the departure of the last mail steamer Juan was called before the Governor. That in itself was not out of the ordinary, for usually after each mail ship the governor had papers from the home government. These it was customary for Juan to read and explain to the people in their own dialect. This time, however, a tax had been levied; only a small tax, and perhaps an unjust one, for never before had the people shared in the cost of governing their island.

At this Juan became furiously angry, and as he thought, so thought his people. There was grave danger of open revolt.

A month passed with no improvement. Meanwhile Juan had written several letters of protest to various leading newspapers of the mother country. In fact, he had even threatened and defied the homeland.

They ordered his arrest!

But who would arrest Juan Vaquero? Only the governor and a few officials lived on the island.

Juan had not heeded the warnings of his wife; in fact he had suddenly returned to his former self, guided by his own radical brain. And, upon hearing his arrest had been ordered, he laughed, drank, scoffed at all law, beat his hairy chest with his powerful fist, and swore again he feared neither man, nor beast, nor law. So through it all the natives sat in wide-eyed amazement, and watched this glamorous, god-like warrior defy all, and too, they believed in him, for they had no conception of the power behind a nation.

Two months passed and a third was well on its way, when early one morning in the gray twilight before the sun had risen, a "man of war" dropped anchor in the little land-locked bay. Then just as the morning sun sent its first rays over the dense vine-clad hills, and before the awakening tropic birds had ceased their screaming, a boat was sent ashore.

There were 10 men in all, two of them officers. Along the dusty village street they marched to the end, and then started to ascend the narrow path leading to the clearing in the cocoanut grove on the high knoll, where stood Juan's home, surrounded by a dense barricade of bamboo.

"Poor Juan," lamented the early risers who saw them. "He is asleep—poor Juan!"

A gun butt battered against Juan's stout bamboo door.

"Who's there?" shouted the alert Juan, who had seen them coming and was dressed.

"Juan Vaquero, unbar your door!"

But he did not respond.

"We have papers for your arrest! Must we batter down your door?"

"Ah! Do as you like," he snapped. "But Vaquero fights!" and he whipped a heavy caliber revolver from his belt, emptying it through the bamboo door.

Instantly the fire was returned, a sudden dry crackle of splitting wood, dust, the sharp whine of bullets—slivers of bamboo seemed to fill the air.

At the first sound of firing, "Flor Mia" hurled her frail body before Juan's, locking her slender arms about his neck, and with gritted teeth held with all her strength.

"Foolish child!" scolded Juan, "stay on the floor." He attempted to throw her from him, but he could not. The firing began again—Juan struggled, but in vain. Then, her arms relaxed, she crumpled into a heap at his feet—a bullet had pierced the back of her head.

Again he called her: "Flor Mia! Floor Mia!" But she did not answer—he understood. Silent tears trekked over his cheeks, he kissed her death-cooling forehead, then softly he lifted the tablecover and spread it gently over her face.

A new and angry fire arose within him, his revolver was empty, snatching his hunting knife from its sheath on the wall, and as a few scattered shots snapped through the room behind him, he made a powerful lunge toward the back wall, his shoulder struck—through he crashed into the bamboo thicket. Then, like the madman he was, he slashed, fought, crushed his way out; disappearing through the cocoanut grove toward the distant hills.

Three days with the ship's entire command they searched for him among the almost impenetrable hills. Not until the close of the third day did they find him.

Juan Vaquero had met death by his own hand, and was still gripping his knife when found.

Though Juan was dead, his island people kept their faith in him; they were happy and convinced that grief had killed him, and grief alone, for Juan Vaquero feared neither man, nor beast, nor law.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

A Great Health Discovery for which its inventor Refused a Fortune

Now placed before the public for the first time

SUNSHINE! Every child needs it to build a sturdy little body. Science has recently found that the health-bringing rays of sunlight are the Ultra-Violet rays which are invisible to the eye but which create the special bone-building Vitamin known as Vitamin "D." Gray, smoke-laden skies of winter, and even clothing, keep away from the child these vital health-rays of the sun. So there has been a search by scientists the world over for a sure and easily available source which would give to children and grown-ups alike this all-important effect of sunlight. Now that way has been found. It has been brought about at last by Ultra-Violet light irradiation through special patented process of the famous hot breakfast cereal—Quaker Farina.

THIS is important news for mothers and expectant mothers, for physicians and hospital heads, for every one vitally interested in human health and welfare.

Professor Harry Steenbock, a distinguished scientist, has now found a sure and easily available way to give you the important bone-building effect of sunshine! He does this by irradiating Quaker Farina, the hot breakfast food long known and prescribed as essential by child specialists, with Ultra-Violet Rays.

The sun's secret

Once you understand fully sunlight's effect upon health, you'll realize the importance of this discovery. Only recently have scientists learned just what it is in sunlight that gives it the remarkable effect it has on health and body building. They have found the power is in certain rays of the sun, invisible to the naked eye, but known as Ultra-Violet Rays. These rays have the capacity to produce one of the needed vitamins, essential to body-building and known to science as Vitamin "D."

This vitamin enables the body to make full use of the lime in milk and other foods. Bones and teeth are built of lime. The child who has plenty of Vitamin "D" has normal bone development. Legs are straight and strong. Teeth sound and hard and far less subject to decay. The child has good appetite; gains in weight.

"Sunlight starvation"

Lacking this important "sunshine vitamin," children do not make the progress they should. Bones are apt to be soft and undeveloped. This shows in bow legs, poor teeth. The child has no appetite; is "always catching cold."

"Sunlight starvation" is all too common, say health authorities. Some physicians insist that as many as 90% of city children suffer from it.

Do you wonder, then, that the search has been for a new, easy way of increasing the "sunshine ration"?

A great discovery

Now that way has been found. It is through irradiating Quaker Farina, the hot wheat cereal, with Ultra-Violet Light under the Steenbock Process. Thus it gains the needed "Sun Vitamin" D and can pass it on to you. Think of that! Now the growing child, the expectant and nursing mother, other grown-ups, too—for all need it—can get at breakfast the "dash of sunshine" that is so essential to growth and health!

The Quaker Oats Company, after long work in collaboration with Professor Steenbock, now presents irradiated Quaker Farina to the public for the first time. Won't you try it? Accept a first package free!

Quaker Farina is made of the creamy white heart of the wheat. Physicians have long prescribed it as the first solid food for infants. Of fine flavor, it is quick and easy to digest. In every way an ideal hot breakfast for the whole family. And now it brings to you an ADDED HEALTH FACTOR of supreme importance which no other hot cereal in the world can claim!

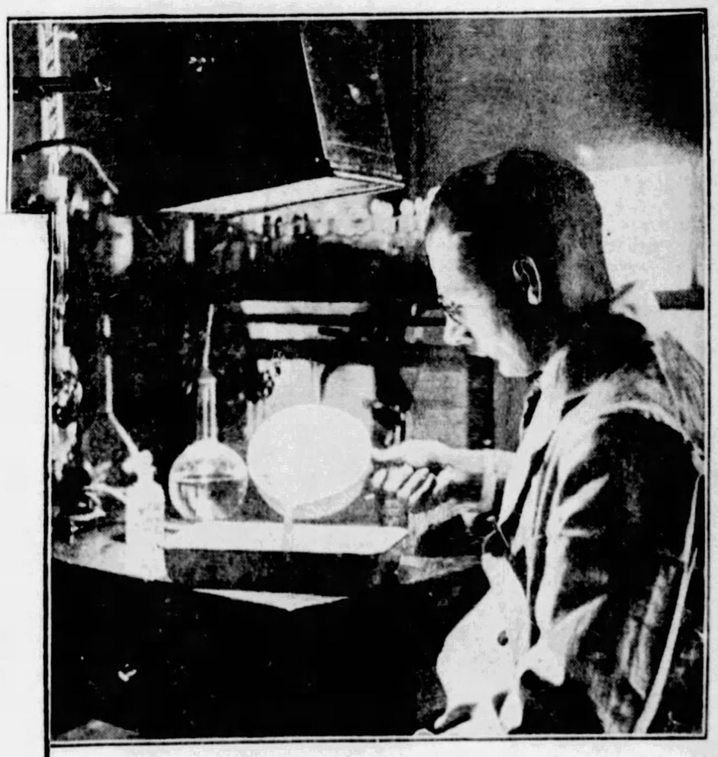
Looks, tastes the same

Irradiated Quaker Farina looks and tastes exactly the same as always. Surely, for your children's sake, you will want to share in the results of this great discovery. Get from your grocer, please, your first package with our compliments.

The Steenbock Process for irradiating foods with Ultra-Violet Rays so as to impart the sunshine vitamin, the bone-building Vitamin "D," has been acclaimed by foremost scientific authorities in nutritional work one of the greatest health discoveries of modern times. For almost 20 years Professor Harry Steenbock of the Department of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin had labored in this field. Many magazines and scientific journals have recently recounted the story of how Professor Steenbock refused a fortune for this important discovery.

Professor Steenbock felt that humanity had rights in his work. So to protect his invention against unethical exploitation, he patented it. He assigned his patent to the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation, a non-profit organization, refusing to accept a penny for his years of labor.

In order to make irradiated cereal available to the public, The Quaker Oats Company, largest cereal manufacturer in the world, was granted exclusive rights to the use of the Steenbock Process insofar as it relates to cereals. Irradiated Quaker Farina is being offered at no increase in price. All the money received by the Foundation is devoted to further research for the benefit of humankind.



Every step in the development of the Steenbock irradiation process was accompanied by the most exacting laboratory research.

ment his craving. He was held up to hear his punishment.

And this poor, sick victim was sentenced to a year in prison. Nothing else to do with him.

"But if we put drug addiction on the list of diseases, the causes of which have been ascertained," continued Bishop Brent, "as emphatically we should, the method of science would deal with it as we deal with malaria and yellow fever. We would destroy the source of infection. The overcultivation of the poppy is a proven and grave cause of infection in the disease of morphia addiction. Let us deal with it as we would spray all standing water with kerosene if yellow fever were threatened."

If a typhoid carrier is arrested, we become furiously incensed. We want the fellow put away. We know that our children are menaced. The carrier may get a job in a bakery or on a milk ranch and send the disease into our homes—give the noisome thing to our babies.

And if he does it knowingly we show no mercy. Why should we?

But not only are the nations of the earth scattering germs far more ghastly than those of any known disease; the big traffickers in our own country are engaged in the business to staggering proportions.

Terrible Wake of Crime Follows Sale of Dope

If a man went around peddling smallpox germs to innocent victims, or to anyone, we would rise in a body and lynch him.

Well, in New York on December 2, 1928, a trunk containing $2,000,000 in cocaine, heroin and opium was found in the check room of the Hotel Commodore.

We've all been told that "dope," even heroin, cocaine and marajuana, do not in themselves directly incite to crime. But the whole history of the narcotic traffic is fetid with unholy murders, lawlessness and gigantic thefts.

The finding of this trunk with its rich booty is an example to the point. This seizure was made by internal revenue officers in running down clues following the murder of Arnold Rothstein, New York gambler. You remember that in Rothstein's safe deposit vaults were found millions in stolen securities?

There were also secret files. By tapping wires the revenue agents discovered operations of a mighty gang of drug traffickers. Big fellows. Joseph Unger, alias Klein, among the chief of them. The trunk in the hotel belonged to Unger. It was to have been placed on the Twentieth Century Limited, which Unger had already taken, bound for Chicago.

In the middle of the night Unger's train was flagged at an isolated water tank on the outskirts of Buffalo. Federal agents boarded the train, took Unger from his berth and placed him under arrest.

They discovered a little black book in Unger's pocket—more names of the colossal drug peddlers.

Luxury Marks Trail of Sellers in American Cities

One of these names led to the North Sheridan Hotel in Chicago, where more hundreds of thousands in drugs were found. Mrs. June Boyd, an attractive, smartly dressed young woman was arrested in her luxurious apartment, where $50,000 in drugs were found. She was one of Unger's clever confederates. She was sentenced to a year and a day in prison.

The same term exactly as given to the poor lonely addict who slashed his wrists in his terrible misery.

Unger had enough drugs in his possession to kill half a million people; enough to permanently infect 20,000 victims with the ghastliest affliction known to humanity—drug addiction.

And he meant to use his contraband for this purpose. And he knew to the last fiendish detail the suffering his trunk full of poison would bring. He knew the price his clients would pay.

For no other reason are drugs brought in illicitly. For no other reason than to continue and spread the opium curse are they peddled.

Any nation which would dare to champion the spreading of yellow fever, of typhoid or smallpox on the plea that this was profitable would be immediately exiled from contact with civilization.

Any individual who would attempt such a plan would be executed—riddled with bullets.

Why do we remain passive under a greater doom than any or all of these?

Why do we permit bluebirds, as the "dope" peddlers call heroin, and snowbirds, as they dub cocaine, to fly about in safety and freedom, dropping everywhere their awful pollution?

We can at least enlighten ourselves. We can proclaim the facts, let them shame whom they will—the greatest nation and the meanest scoundrel.

We can educate our children so that they would step into a vat of quick lime, into a roaring furnace, so that they would lie down with lepers before they would take one grain of poppy products.

We can do a great deal more than this. Will we?

WARSAW, Feb. 6.—(Jewish telegraphic agency)—Deciding that a $100,000 gift in the will of an American woman for poor Jews in the city was too large a sum to be frowned upon, the city council of Bidgorg, formerly Bromberg, in the province of Posen, voted to accept the gift.

PIRATES GET TIE, GAIN IN ICE RACE

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Pittsburgh Is Honored. Tribute to Dreyfuss. Lary Demands $15,000. | Whites Best Archers. Tradition Is Exploded. Schaefer Oldest Cueist.

PIRATE MAGNATE LAST OF HIS ERA

NEW baseball distinction for Pittsburgh, as well as a personal tribute to President Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pirates, is contained in the action of the National League in unanimously electing the local club owner to the newly-created office of vice president. It is the only time in its history, dating back to 1876, that the parent organization has had a vice president, and Father Pitt and local fandom may justly feel proud of the honor bestowed upon this city in the selection of the Buccaneer magnate as the first man to fill the post.

Barney Dreyfuss

The office, though on the surface, merely honorary, really is an important and responsible one, as it was created because the senior major league finally realized the advisability of having available a capable man, to whom the running of the circuit's affairs might with safety be entrusted temporarily, in the event that President John A. Heydler should, for any reason, be unable to carry on with the duties of his position. That fact makes the choosing of the Pittsburgher all the more a tribute to him as an attest of the confidence and faith placed in his ability and integrity by his fellow club owners.

SO IT follows that the election of the Pirate president to the vice presidency of the league was not only intended as a mark of respect to his seniority, but was a recognition of his ability to step in and take full charge of circuit matters in an emergency.

The league's first vice president takes on his new title with the record of being the oldest magnate in either of the major loops in point of continuous activity as an executive. This is his thirty-first year as president of a National League club. He was secretary of the Louisville club for several years and became its president in 1899. Since 1900 he has been president of the Pirates.

THE next oldest club president is Charles A. Comiskey, who has been at the head of the Chicago Americans since 1900. All of the others who were club presidents in the early days of President Dreyfuss are dead or have retired. The list includes Charles H. Byrne, Charles H. Ebbets, John T. Brush, James A. Hart, Frank De Haas Robison, Chris Von der Ahe, M. Stanley Robinson, A. H. Soden, A. J. Reach, A. G. Spalding, John B. Day, H. R. Von der Horst, B. S. Muckenfuss, Ed Hanlon, John B. Day and others.

Charles A. Comiskey

Unlike the National, the American League has had a vice president since its organization. Charles W. Somers, first of the Boston club and later of the Cleveland club, served from 1900 to 1916, Charles A. Comiskey, of the Chicago club, from 1917 to 1919, and Frank J. Navin has held the office from 1920 up to date.

SOME young ball players get big ideas about their value, but Lyn Lary appears to have broken all records in that respect. Here is a boy who was purchased from Oakland in the Pacific Coast League by the New York Yankees. He has never played a game in the big league, and, as in the case of all other raw recruits, there is a question as to whether he will be able to make good. In fact, one good judge of baseball timber, who came to Pittsburgh recently from California for a visit and who has had many chances to watch Lary in action, predicts that the player will be a flop, that he will never hit big league pitching. Yet we find young Mr. Lary among the spring holdouts. He has spurned the contract sent to him as being utterly unworthy of consideration.

IT would be surprising enough to see an untried rookie like Lary failing to accept any sort of salary offer when it involved a chance to show his wares and break into big money, but Lary's case is even more of a startler when you learn the figures he is asking.

A mere $15,000 for his first season in the big show (if he lasts a full season) is all that this youngster asks. Right off the bat he wants a salary not far removed from that paid to Pie Traynor, or to Freddie Lindstrom, or to Frankie Frisch, or to some other established infield star. Evidently the lad has plenty of self-confidence, if nothing else.

TRADITION and story books make the American Indian the master of the bow and arrow, but Dr. Frank Lyman, of the athletic department of the University of Michigan, says the best red archer would come in an extremely poor second if pitted against one of the country's leading white experts.

Dr. A. S. Pope

"I doubt if the Indian was such a good shot as tradition makes him out to have been," Dr. Lyman is quoted. "He was essentially a hunter, and he shot only when he was sure of his game. He would creep up almost to within touching distance of the animal he selected as a target.

"IT IS timely to recall some occasions when Dr. Arthur Saxton Pope, one of the leaders in archery in America, engaged red and black experts of the United States and Africa," Dr. Lyman continued. "On the whole, Dr. Pope outshot his Indian and African opponents. During the competition in Africa, however, one of the black chiefs gave him a close call in distance shooting. Dr. Pope defeating him by only a narrow margin, and at that his victory was due only to superior equipment. In Minnesota there are some Chippewas who still use the bow and arrow, and we have shot against them. They are extremely accurate up to 30 yards, but beyond that distance we have never had any trouble outshooting them.

"THE wonderful shooting of Robin Hood and his friends has been exaggerated a trifle. Also that bit of shooting in William Tell is going a little too strong. The longest official shot ever made with a bow and arrow was 391 yards, 1 foot and 6 inches. There is an unofficial record of a man's shooting 422 yards, with the bow braced against his feet.

"Archery is under the same handicaps that beset tennis and golf when they were introduced. The popular opinion is that it is an effeminate pastime, the same remark that they made about tennis and golf. But the time is coming when archery will be a major sport in this country."

SOME one has pointed out that Jake Schaefer, who was born on October 18, 1894, is the oldest contestant in the big billiard

BARNEY SUBS FOR HEYDLER, ON VACATION

By JAMES J. LONG.

Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, is to be called upon to assume charge of National League affairs immediately following his election yesterday as vice president of the circuit. League President John A. Heydler will leave New York tomorrow on a vacation trip to the South, and during his absence from headquarters any important league matters on which action cannot be deferred until his return will be attended to by Vice President Dreyfuss.

The Pittsburgh magnate, who returned home this morning from New York, where he attended the schedule meeting of the senior major loop yesterday, today received numerous telegrams from baseball men all over the country congratulating him on his unanimous election as the first vice president that the National League has had in the 53 years of its existence.

NOMINATED STONEHAM

Later reports from New York disclose that after the magnates had created the office of vice president by amending the constitution, President Dreyfuss nominated Charles A. Stoneham, of the New York club, for the post, pointing out that he would be right on the scene at any time League President Heydler might be unable to act. Stoneham and the other club owners refused to entertain this proposal and insisted that the honor be conferred upon the Pittsburgh magnate in recognition of both his seniority and his ability.

he constitution now provides that in event of a vacancy in the office of president, a new president shall be elected within 30 days, the vice president to act as league head in the meantime.

The Pirate owner reports that the schedule meeting was a most harmonious one and that everything was put in shape for the opening of the season on April 16. The Bucs will start the race in Chicago on that day. The campaign will close October 6.

BRAVES' FIGHT ENDS

President Dreyfuss says that the league's delay in adopting the prepared schedule does not mean that any revision of dates will be necessary on account of the Sunday baseball situation in Boston. No further obstacles are expected to arise there, he says, the delay in granting a permit to the Braves being due merely to a regulation made by the city council that the applicants for such a license must appear in person before the body. As soon as this is done the license will be issued.

It is said that the Red Sox will play their Sunday games at Braves Field inasmuch as their own park is located at a point not the required distance from a church. The two clubs will be required to pay only one license fee of $2,000 inasmuch as they will use the same grounds.

SEASON OPENS APRIL 16

The 1929 season will open Tuesday, April 16, five days later than last year, with New York playing at Philadelphia, Brooklyn at Boston, St. Louis at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh at Chicago. The season will close Sunday, October 6, one week later than the closing date in 1928.

As a result of formal action, the waiver price on first year players will be $7,500, regardless of the initial cost of the athlete involved. Formerly, if waivers were refused on a first-year player, the club claiming him was obligated to pay the club holding him the sum paid for him.

After the first year, a player is subject to the waiver price paid for regulars, $4,000. An effort to increase the regular waiver price to $7,500 failed.

PRICE IS STANDARDIZED

It was suggested that the change in first-year waiver will have a tendency to standardize waiver prices and curb extravagance, as clubs will not be inclined to invest large sums in untried players of uncertain value when they may be forced to dispose of them for $7,500. The reduced price will probably result in mere extended major league employment for some youngsters, who fail to demonstrate their worth at first glance.

An umpiring staff of 14, 12 active and two advisory, was announced. Robert D. Emslie and Henry (Hank) O'Day were retained in an advisory capacity, and 11 of the 12 active callers of balls and strikes were on the staff last year. The addition is George L. Magerkurth, promoted from the Pacific Coast League.

The services of Magerkurth were obtained by purchase. President Heydler announced that the National League paid $2,000 for the umpire's contract, a new high mark in the baseball market. The recruit umpire was a catcher and first baseman as a player and has umpired in the Mississippi Valley League, the International, American Association and Pacific Coast.

The active umpires will be William J. Klem, Charles Rigler, Ernest C. Quigley, Charles B. Moran, William J. McCormick, Robert Hart, Charles Pfirman, Jack Reardon, Louis Jorda, Albert D. Stark, Sherwood R. Magee and George L. Magerkurth.

Big Bill Expects Reinstatement Tomorrow

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Big Bill Tilden may make his first reappearance on the amateur courts at the Heights Casino tournament, Brooklyn, starting Saturday, if he is reinstated by the United States Lawn Tennis Association at the meeting of the executive committee at Boston tomorrow.

Tilden is in New York filling a stage engagement, and has tentatively accepted an invitation to play in the Brooklyn tournament if the ban on him is lifted by the U. S. L. T. A.

BILL GIVING FIGHT COMISH UNLIMITED POWER OFFERED

HARRISBURG, Feb. 6.—The Wheeler House bill, introduced as an offset to the Harris Senate bill, which would exempt amateur boxing exhibitions from control by the State Athletic Commission, goes the limit to create an arbitrary power on the part of the commission to extend its jurisdiction even to a high school exhibition.

The Wheeler bill rips through the act empowering the commission, with a plain intent to delete anything that makes a distinction between amateur and professional.

MAKES NO DISTINCTION

In the penalty clause of the existing laws there is a telltale reference to amateurs which shows the purpose of the framers of the original act. This clause contains the phrase: "Except where all contestants are amateurs." The proposed Wheeler bill amendment clips out this exception, giving the penalty clause an aspect which makes no distinction between professionals and amateurs.

The commission is vested with sole direction, management, control and jurisdiction over all boxing, wrestling matches or exhibitions to be conducted, held or given within the state and is empowered to issue licenses to which the Wheeler bill would add "permits" which must be taken out. To the clause in the present law which permits organizations and institutions to hold exhibitions, the Wheeler bill added: "Provided that before such match or exhibition is held a permit is granted by the commission."

FIXES NEW FEES

The Wheeler amendments also include announcers and matchmakers with the class required to take out license, the announcer's rate being fixed at $5 and the matchmaker's at $10. Where under the present system the referee declares amounts forfeited for failure of boxers to perform creditably, under the proposed amendment the purse would be withheld by the commission itself, which would hold a hearing and pass judgment as to what should be done with the fund. The proposed amendments also would raise the bond limit, now at $1,000, to $3,000.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Plans to start the Harvard spring football practice on March 18 and continue it for three weeks has been announced by Athletic Director William J. Bingham. Bingham said he had several football conferences with Head Coach Arnold Horween in St. Louis. Horween will take charge of the spring work.

SHARKEY STARTS WORK TODAY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 6.—(AP.)—W. L. (Young) Stribling has announced he will obey Jack Dempsey's injunction against flying on airplane or riding a motorcycle until after his fight with Jack Sharkey here, February 27.

"I was going to get a lot of recreation out of my plane before the fight, but it looks like I'll have to use an automobile or 'shank horses' if I want to feel the breeze in my face," the Georgia fighter said. The injunction requested by Dempsey's attorneys had not been served on Stribling.

Stribling is doing road work nightly, but will start his ring training at the Miami Beach Kennel Club Friday. Sharkey plans to begin today and will go through his paces again tomorrow, but will go to Tampa with Dempsey Friday to attend a fight there.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Young Jake Schaefer, former world champion, won his opening match in the annual 18.2 balkline billiards tournament last night by defeating Felix Grange, of France, 400 to 305, in 17 innings.

The French player electrified the audience with a brilliant run of 118 in the fifteenth inning, which put him in the lead 292 to 257, but Schaefer came back with a run of 135 in the next inning. This left him eight short of his goal and he ran out the following time up.

The score by innings:

Schaefer—1 2 48 4 4 0 2 1 27 51 11 0 9 51 44 135 8—400.

Grange—7 3 41 4 78 21 2 0 7 1 2 0 7 2 118 17 7—305.

Welker Cochran, of California, former champion, started his drive to regain the 18.2 billiard crown by defeating Erich Hagenlacher of Germany, also a former titleholder, 400 to 283 in 19 innings.

Hagenlacher went into the lead early in the match, scoring 40 in the first inning after Cochran had missed. He led until the seventh inning, when Cochran ran 30 to assume a slight advantage. In the next frame Hagenlacher brought the balls under control and resumed the lead with a run of 98.

He held this advantage until the thirteenth inning, when Cochran broke loose with a short run of 40. Hagenlacher made his last bid in the seventeenth with a run of 85 that brought him from behind to take a lead of nearly half a hundred.

The score by innings:

PETTY, MAMAUX ADD COLOR TO GRUBER FETE

By JESS CARVER.

Jess Petty and Al Mamaux, the big song and dance men of baseball, will add the color of their presence to the John Gruber testimonial banquet, to be held in the William Penn Hotel February 14 by the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. Jess and Al and their act, added to the already hefty and colorful list of attractions, boosts the banquet stock just 100 per cent.

Petty, who became a Pirate in a trade with the Brooklyn Robins, and Mamaux, former Bucco hurler and now a member of the Newark Bears in the International League, have a catchy vaudeville act and will be here next week, playing the Davis Theater. The boys jumped at the chance to attend the affair, just as the other headliners made return mail acceptances of their invitations.

OTHER STARS TO COME

Two other diamond veterans, both of National vintage, and well known here, have accepted their invites and will be present. Ed Abbaticchio, who second based for the Pirates a score of years ago, and Walter Alperman, of Etna, former second sacker of the Brooklyn club, have been invited and will attend.

Four college cheer leaders, may their ashes rest in peace, will attend to the cheering. Their first duties will be to keep the boys together and in tune during the soup course. A rah rah boy from Pitt and one each from Tech, Duquesne and Wash-Jeff, have been engaged for the job.

Fred Robinson, of the Hill Crest Country Club, of New Kensington, got off the first drive among the professional golfers' fraternity for a ticket, sending in his five balloons yesterday. He is now 1 up on the entire field of pros in this territory who are expected to attend.

JIM MARKS TO ATTEND

Jim Marks, the sage of Kiskiminetas and the poet laureate of Elder's Ridge, and five of his boy friends have reserved half of a table and will be on hand. Knowing Jim and the class of boy friends he associates with, it is not difficult to imagine that one table is

Landis to Probe Signing of Two Contracts

DURHAM, N. C., Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball's supreme dictator, continued here today an investigation to determine whether a major or minor league contract shall prevail with a slugging collegiate ball player, the prize at stake.

Chink Outen, North Carolina State outfielder, signed two contracts—one with Charlotte, of the South Atlantic League while still in college, and another with the New York Yankees. Both clubs claimed his services, but later the Yankees bought his contract from Charlotte.

Judge Landis was not satisfied, however, and yesterday he arrived to make his own inquiry into the deal.

Benny Leonard's ice Pirates, with Benny himself urging them on from the pilot's seat, advanced one-half game nearer the Detroit Cougars and a place in the hockey world series by holding the Toronto Maple Leafs to a scoreless tie in an overtime battle at Duquesne Garden last night. The scoreless deadlock was the second in which the Bucs have engaged in as many fights, they having held the Montreal Maroons to an 0-0 score here last Saturday.

Exceptionally close checking by the front lines and faultless play by the defense men featured the hard-fought joust. Only about one out of every three thrusts carried beyond center ice, and the defenders and goalies turned aside the attacks which penetrated to their respective zones. Miller, in the Pittsburgh cage, was called upon to make about one really difficult stop in each period. Chabot, Toronto goalie, spent a much busier evening, but he proved equal to every occasion.

DARRAGH MAKES BID

The Pirates' best scoring chance, one such as Toronto never had, came after about 12 minutes of play in the first period when Harold Darragh broke through and carried the puck in on top of Goalie Chabot. Darragh, quite naturally, was well roughed up by the Leaf defense men as he wormed his way through, and he was badly off balance as he overtook the disc, which he had batted toward the cage. Goalie Chabot came out to meet Darragh as the latter came in, and as the guardian fell forward Harold flipped the puck into the air in an effort to lift it over his shoulder. The drive, however, was an inch or two too high, and as the disc slipped over the top of the cage the locals' big scoring chance slipped with it.

Almost every other member of the Pittsburgh squad made a fair bid for a score at one time or another, Frederickson, on Milks' rebound and Drury, on a pass from Cotton, burned hot drives toward the corners of the cage in the first stanza. Drury troubled Chabot with several accurate backhanders in the second period, and Milks-Frederickson-Darragh, Frederickson-McCaffrey and Smith-Frederickson combina-

His right arm underdeveloped and limp as a result of infantile paralysis, Bruce Engelmeier, aged 17, of the North Side, is gradually nursing it back to usefulness through the medium of daily bag-punching in the gymnasium of the North Side A. Now he can draw it shoulder high and punch straight out with it, delivering a hard blow, and he feels an almost daily strengthening of the limb.

HEINZ FIVE TO MAKE BOW IN TOURNEY TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

HEINZ HOUSE will make its bow in the first-class division of the Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. tournament tonight when it opposes the crack Clairton Big Five on the Sarah Heinz House floor.

The North Siders, who are entered in the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League, played mediocre basketball during the first half of the season, but have shown a decided improvement in recent contests. Heinz House's showing in the second half of the Institutional League race to date stamps it as one of the strongest contenders for the championship.

Coach Howard Francis is deserving of much credit for the uphill fight being made by his team to obtain a place in the basketball spotlight. Francis had to rebuild his crack team of last year, most of the veterans of the 1927-1928 quintet having gone elsewhere to play.

DEVELOPED WINNER

Despite the fact that only one regular returned from the 1927-1928 team the North Side coach appears to have developed a quintet that should go far in amateur basketball this season. His team got away to a fine start in the second round of the Institutional League race and if it continues this pace it is certain to rank among the leaders.

Heinz House is taking nothing for granted in its battle with the Clairton passers tonight. The squad held a spirited workout last night in preparation for its tournament debut.

In the preliminary the Heinz House Reserves meet the J. J. Veronas in an A. A. U. tournament game. The teams are entered in the light first-class division.

While Heinz House is engaging in a non-league game, four others enrolled in the Institutional League will meet in league encounters. Y. M. H. A. and Kingsley House renew a feud of long standing at Kingsley House, while Hill Top and East Liberty Y. clash at East Liberty.

IMMACULATE AT MANGANS

Joe Dobbs will take his hustling band of Immaculate Heart passers to the South Side Market House tonight where the Brereton avenue quintet is scheduled to meet the Mangans in the only game scheduled in the Pittsburgh & Ohio Valley League.

The Immaculate Heart and Mangan teams have added considerable strength to their lineups since the close of the first-half schedule and they should present an interesting contest.

The Mangans, who lost out in the closing stages of the first round of play, are eager to win the second half of the P. & O. League championship and as a result are displaying fine team-work, something that was lacking earlier in the season.

DRIBBLES

The Enoch Rauhs will attempt to stay in the race for the second-half County League championship tonight when they meet the Reliance Life team at Columbus Temple. Tomorrow night on the same floor, the Rauhs meet the League Leading Goldensons, who defeated the Hakoahs at the Market House Monday night.

The West Virginia Hubs will be the attraction of the Moon Run Mohawks tonight on the Robinson High School floor. Whoopee Club meets Greentree in the preliminary at 8 o'clock.

The Panther Club of Etna, wants games with light first-class teams. Call Sterling 1523 between 6 and 7 o'clock and ask for Bob.

HEENEY'S CLAIM TO CROWN A LAUGH

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The claim of Charley Harvey that his man, Tom Heeney, is the logical successor to the mantle dropped by Gene Tunney rates as one of the big laughs of the year. Whatever prestige Heeney had acquired before the fought Tunney last fall was entirely dissipated in that battle, in which he served as a mere punching bag for the champion. If Heeney is the best of the crop of contenders, we'll wake up one of these fine days to find Fidel LaBarba or some other little fellow smacking him over and installing himself as the champion of champions.

Happy Atherton, of Indianapolis, who meets Jackie Rodgers in the windup at McKeesport Thursday night, boasts a nifty record. He has engaged in 103 bouts in the six years he has been boxing and has met, among others, Midget Mike O'Dowd, Fidel LaBarba, Frankie Genaro, Newsboy Brown, Willie Davies, Harry Forbes, Luis Carpentero, Emil Paluso, Black Bill and Corp. Izzy Schwartz.

Billy Jones, the Negro light-heavy of Philadelphia, who has been going well in the East, is a former Pittsburgher. He was born here, is 21 years old, 5 feet 10½ inches tall and scales around 165 pounds. He has won most of his bouts via the knockout route.

Our own Charles J. (Chilly) Doyle is now in Canada, along with Joseph F. Huhn, another local scrivener, as the guest of the Canadian Pacific Railway on the annual sightseeing trip given members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. He'll be back in time to help out in the testimonial dinner to John H. Gruber at the William Penn Hotel Thursday night of next week and then will head for California with the first batch of Pirates. Oh, yes, our Chas. sees a great deal of the world.

GERBER, MALESKY SIGN

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—(INS.)—Walter Gerber and William Malesky, shortstops, signed contracts with the Red Sox for the coming season, according to an announcement by Hy Mason, secretary of the club.

Gibbons Gives Church To Minnesota Town

ST. PAUL, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—A $50,000 church is to be erected at Oaskis, Minn, with funds provided by Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul's retired light-heavyweight boxer.

Gibbons announced today that a contract for construction of the church has been awarded. It will be finished next August and will be known as the Church of the Immaculate Conception, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Gibbons.

The Gibbons' summer house is at Oaskis, a lake resort, and it was a desire to do something "worth while" for the town that prompted the gift.

Fighter Dies Following Knockout

SEATTLE, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Cecil Geysel, 21-year-old welterweight boxer of Seattle, was held today pending an inquest into the death of Eddie Cartwright, 22, Negro welterweight of Portland, Ore., who died a few minutes after having been knocked out by Geysel last night.

The knockout blow did not cause the death of the veteran, an autopsy showed. It was the last of a battery of punches to the jaw from the gloves of Geysel.

A hemorrhage, resulting from a rupture of arteries at the base of the brain when Cartwright's head struck the canvas caused his death, Coroner William J. Jones reported. The examination also revealed a diseased heart, which, consulting physicians said, might have caused his death from any form of overexertion.

LEONARD SEEKS COAST STARS

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—(INS.)—Benny Leonard, owner of the Pittsburgh hockey team, has offered the San Francisco hockey club $7,500 for Walter Broadfoot, goalkeeper, it was learned here today. He was advised that Broadfoot was not for sale at this time. Leonard also evinced interest in George Bond, of the Oakland club.

PIRATE SCOUT ACTIVE

Charley Leonard, secretary of the Pittsburgh Hockey Club and brother of Benny Leonard, owner, today said that the Pirates were not carrying on direct negotiations for Broadfoot and Bond, Pacific Coast ice stars, but that Benny might have authorized one of the club's scouts to open negotiations in his behalf.

Benny left for New York this morning.

TOMMY LOUGHRAN DEFEATS EMANUEL IN CLOSE BOUT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Tommy Loughran, light-heavyweight king, for the second time won a 10-round decision over Armand Emanuel, San Francisco boxer, here last night. Sport critics gave Loughran five rounds and Emanuel three, with the others called even.

MAKES WHIRLWIND FINISH

Loughran put on a whirlwind finish in the ninth and tenth rounds after having been knocked to the floor in the seventh for no count.

Emanuel lost a previous encounter to Loughran last June in New York, also by the decision route.

Loughran started fast and piled up a lead in the early rounds. He was more aggressive throughout. After arguing all day over the question of judges, the matter was still undecided at gong-time for the main event. When Jack Doyle threatened to call off the show, it was finally decided to proceed without judges. This left the decision entirely in the hands of Referee Roth.

From the fifth round on, Emanuel better managed to avoid the stinging left and got in some telling blows himself.

TOMMY KNOCKED DOWN

In the seventh stanza, Armand sent Tommy to the floor with a left hook. Although it looked more like an off-balance push than anything else, Emanuel was credited with a knockdown. The champion inhaled deeply of smelling salts when he went to his corner.

The eighth round was even, and Tommy came back in the ninth, rocking Emanuel with that aggravating left and causing him to miss. Loughran tried hard for the knockout punch in this session.

Armand waded in savagely in the final stanzas, trying desperately to overtake Tommy's early lead.

High Officials To Force Max To Fight

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—After denying New York reports that Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, had been given permission to cancel his Boston bout with Con O'Kelly on February 15, Boston Garden officials have threatened to appeal to boxing commissions generally to suspend him if he fails to fulfill his contract.

"There has been no official release of Schmeling's contract, and his fight with O'Kelly will come off on February 15, as scheduled," Huntington R. (Tack) Hardwick, chairman of the Boston Garden's executive committee, declared.

ROBERTS MEDALIST

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6.—(AP.)—C. A. Roberts, Miami, led the field of 142 qualifiers in the Miami-Biltmore midwinter invitation golf tournament with a 76. Roberts is paired today with Maurice Feeney, Indianapolis, for the beginning of match play.

SPORT COMMENT

tournament now in progress at New York for the world 18.2 balkline championship, but that doesn't mean that Jake's chances of bringing the title back to the United States are lessened.

For billiards is one game in which the old saying that youth must be served does not always hold good. A matter of a few years' difference in the ages of the contenders doesn't mean a thing.

Jake Schaefer

As a matter of fact, excepting only the cases of Willie Hoppe and Frank Ives, youth never has played an important role in the winning of professional balkline tournaments according to the best recollections of such a veteran authority as J. P. Allen. Maurice Vignaux, the famous French player, was a middle aged man when he won the first championship tournament against George Sutton, George Slosson and Louis Cure in Paris, in February, 1903. And Sutton was of about the same age when he won the second titular competition in New York, in April, 1906, a tourney in which he defeated the original Jake (Wizard) Schaefer, Willie Hoppe, Louis Cure, Albert Cutler and Ora Morningstar. So, if the son of the late Wizard does not succeed in recapturing the title for Uncle Sam it will not be on account of his age.

tion plays carried almost home in the third 20-minute session.

BLAIR BREAKS THROUGH

Andy Blair, Leaf center, and the versatile athlete in the ice sport, almost wrecked the Bucco bark late in the third period when he crowded the defense men back toward the net and shot from only a few feet out. Miller met the crisis in masterful fashion, and never again were the Leafs able to extend him. Pettinger, Lowry and Day and Cox and Blair teamed up in several beautiful combination plays for the invaders, and Bailey thrilled with fast one-man thrusts.

McCaffrey and Roger Smith, playing throughout the 70 minutes without relief, gave a faultless exhibition on defense, and Manager Benny kept the forwards tuned up to a fighting pitch. Frederickson shook off a series of wicked wallops in playing one of the fastest, hardest games of his career as a Buc, and neither Milks nor Darragh was stingy in spending energy. Drury, White and Cotton, stong on defense, generally used Drury's backhander to their offensive weapon.

In gaining a tie the Pirates enabled Benny Leonard to achieve his ambition of being the only National League manager to retire undefeated. And the retired undefeated lightweight boxing champion earned his new title, for he almost wore himself out giving his men thumps on the back and shouting words of encouragement. Manager Odie Cleghorn, ill for the last eight days with an attack of grip, is well on his way to recovery and will relieve Benny of the managerial duties when the Bucs invade Toronto Saturday. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—0.		Toronto—0.
Miller	G	Chabot
McCaffrey	R.D.	A. Smith
R. Smith	L.D.	Day
Frederickson	C	Blair
Darragh	R.W.	Bailey
Milks	L.W.	Cox

First period—Scoring, none. Penalties—Day, Frederickson.

Second period—Scoring, none. Penalty—Lowrey.

Third period—Scoring, none. Penalties none.

Overtime period—Scoring, none. Penalties none.

DUNN-RODGERS FIGHT IN MAKING

Upon the outcome of his battle with Happy Atherton, of Indianapolis, at McKeesport, tomorrow night, depends another important bout for Jackie Rodgers, popular little Negro bantamweight of the North Side. Promoter Francis Flynn, of the Moose Temple, is angling for a match between Roger and Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, and if Rodgers comes through safely against Atherton, he may put it on for Friday night of next week.

After having apparently fallen through because of a break between Dick Evans and his manager, Ed Kline, the much-discussed meeting between Henry Firpo and Evans has been closed for the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, one week from next Monday night. The New Castle club has been trying for months to bring the pair together and a banner crowd is expected to witness the clash.

J., in the management in this section of Don Petrin, light-heavyweight; Floyd Hybert, 150-pounder; Herman Bernstein, welterweight; Luis Perez, 130-pounder; Charley Arthurs, middleweight, and Bobby Amster, lightweight. Most Prosperous Industries Usually Those That Are Best Managed.

—By B. C. FORBES

ARE the most prosperous American industries usually those that have been best-managed?

Yesterday's column enumerated poorly-managed industries which have done poorly.

Let us glance at the record and the management of industries which have come prominently and profitably to the front.

THE automobile industry has had the most dazzling history of them all. It has made far more millionaires than any other industry during the present century. Thousands of early stockholders on even a modest scale have been made rich. Probably 20 $100,000,000 fortunes have sprung from motors in the last 20 years—as well as one famous billion-dollar fortune. In few industries has greater progress been made in improving the quality of the product. Its dependability, its efficiency, and its attractiveness. Notwithstanding that the cost of living is some two-thirds higher than it was before the war or at any other time. Not only so, but automobile leaders have carried selling and advertising to a point not matched by any other great industry. Research has been conducted on an unparalleled scale. Latterly, too, foreign markets have been opened up with tremendous energy.

WHAT of the electric industry?

America has led the world in the whole field of electricity.

General Electric and Westinghouse are without equals in any part of the earth. Millions upon millions of dollars have been intelligently spent by them in searching for new knowledge, new inventions, new uses. Year after year electrical products of all kinds have been vigorously pushed. Effective advertising has been liberally employed. Like the motor dollar, the electric dollar buys more today than it did in the past, despite the doubling of wages and the enormous rise in almost everything else we use.

THE American Telephone Company long ago set the pace for the rest of the world. While the science of telephony has lagged and dragged in other lands, advance after advance has been achieved here, thanks mainly to persistent, painstaking, large-scale research, combined with such faith in the future that hundreds of millions of dollars a year have been readily invested in constructing facilities ahead of the demand. Naturally, the American Telephone Company has prospered.

IN RADIO veritable miracles have been wrought. We are assured that before long we will be able to sit at home and watch all kinds of spectacles and events in any part of the land. Closely allied with the radio art has been the sending of photographs through the air, the creation of talking motion pictures, the instantaneous transmission of signatures, advertisements, documents of every description. The marketing of radios has been conducted with unremitting forcefulness, and newspapers and periodicals have devoted countless columns to keeping the public informed on every new development. All of which has contributed to the multiplying many times of the market value of the principal radio shares and to the giving of employment to a vast number of breadwinners.

IN THE realm of motion pictures America has been first, the rest of the world nowhere. Our producers have had the courage to invest staggering sums in building plants equipped to the nth degree and in making films of unbelievable scope, vitality and attractiveness. Millionaires galore have been made as well as films. And some of the highest salaries ever paid human beings have gone to directors, actresses and actors.

COURAGE, vision, daring have characterized the electric power and light industry. Projects dwarfing the building of the Panama Canal have become almost commonplace. The cost of producing power has been repeatedly reduced, current has been transmitted in volume and over distances not attempted elsewhere. Skilled salesmanship has been employed and the goodwill of consumers, customer-owners of securities and the general public has been assiduously cultivated. Not many industries have prospered more.

MANAGEMENT has now come to be recognized as the all-important factor decreeing success or failure in a corporation or in a whole industry. Brilliantly-managed industries, as a rule, are prosperous; others less so.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Break Sharply — Reymer Shares Higher

CREDIT BOGEY HALTS STOCK ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The announcement that the Federal Reserve Board would issue a statement on credit conditions after the close of the market threw a bad scare into the stock market today, and prices broke sharply after an opening interval of strength. Early gains of 1 to 8 points were cut down, or wiped out, and a long list of issues, including several of the industrial favorites, dropped 3 to 10 points. Wright Aeronautical, which was strong yesterday, broke 18 points.

No information was forthcoming as to the contents of the Federal Reserve statement, but in banking circles the view was expressed that it would deal with the board's attitude on the domestic credit situation. The presence of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, in Washington, was interpreted in some quarters as foreshadowing an increase in the Bank of England's discount rate tomorrow. This would have a tendency to check gold imports from Great Britain and might lead to a withdrawal of British funds from New York.

Local credit conditions were easier. Call money renewed at 7 per cent and dropped to 6 when large offerings were made in the outside market below the official rate. The day's trade and dividend news continued favorable. Rock Island directors raised the annual dividend from $6 to $7 and a $2 extra was declared on Pere Marquette. The weekly steel trade reviews continued to take a hopeful view of the situation. Iron Age reported that "a January record in pig iron production, growing demand for automobile and railroad steel and increasing price strength in a number of mill products confirm the confidence of the iron and steel trade in a sustained rate of activity during the remainder of the quarter."

At least 10 copper stocks, including Anaconda, Chile, Cerro De Pasco and Granby, moved into new high ground in the early trading on predictions of another increase in the price of the red metal. The gains, which ran from 1 to 3½ points, were practically wiped out in the early afternoon reaction.

Curtiss, Radio, Advance Rumely, General Electric, Johns-Manville, American Linseed, Dupont and Union Carbide were hammered down 5 to nearly 10 points, and International Telephone, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Steel Common, Westinghouse Electric, National Cash Register, Western Union, Mack Trucks and Chrysler sold 2 to 4½ points lower.

Pools stepped aside in the late trading when the offerings became too abundant and bear traders used the opportunity to hammer down high grade rails. Atchison, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific and Louisville and Nashville were down 4 to 6 points. Several of the metal shares broke sharply. Joseph Lead lost 7 points and Federal Mining 10. U. S. Steel got down to 179½ before it shared in a late rally. The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 4,750,000 shares.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Trading on the curb market today was highly unsettled. A few stocks rose sharply, while many issues which have recently been strong were heavily liquidated in nervousness over the special announcement which is to be issued by the Federal Reserve Board late today.

Goldman Sachs Trading again went skyrocketing, mounting nearly 20 points to above 190, and Crocker Wheeler soared more than 25 points, approaching 290. Consolidated Film Industries was strong, moving up about a point on estimates that 1928 earnings on the common were about $2.25 a share, which is regarded as foreshadowing early initiation of dividends. U. S. Freight moved up 4 and Electric Industries more than 2 points.

Standard Oil of Indiana, which turned over in enormous volume yesterday as result of the 50 per cent stock dividend, encountered profit taking today, selling off about 3 points by early afternoon. Some of the utilities were heavily sold, Electric Bond and Share dropping 7 and Electric Investors 2 points.

The new Kennecott Copper shares opened strong, then yielded about a point.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

SEVERE MOTOR COMPETITION EXPECTED

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

COMPETITIVE conditions in the automobile business threaten to be more severe this year than at any time in the past. This is in spite of the fact that the predictions of a record year in total business have an excellent chance of fulfillment.

General Motors and other motor car makers who had good results from 1929 operations had Ford and Dodge to thank for much of their prosperity. These two giants of the industry are now getting into their stride, but Ford did virtually nothing in the first half of 1928 and Dodge's production was small.

The latter six months of the year showed a marked improvement in the results of both of these companies and further increases have been shown this year.

Judging from purchases of steel, glass and other products in this district, there is a wide divergence in the production schedules of the leading automobile makers. The General Motors units are not particularly busy at present. The manufacture of the new Chevrolets is not up to expectations. The difficulty is understood to be in the production end. Sales are believed to be satisfactory.

AMONG the busiest plants in the industry at present are Ford, Dodge, Studebaker and Willys-Overland. Ford has pushed his output up to 7,500 cars a day and expects to pass the 8,000 mark shortly. In the case of Ford, there has been a tremendous accumulation of orders so that his problem will continue to be one of production rather than of sales for some time to come.

The growth in the volume of automobile making has further swelled the demand for steel sheets. The American Sheet and Tin Plate Company is working at 96 per cent of capacity. From the standpoint of shipments of sheets January was the greatest month in the company's history. Two war years, 1916 and 1917, came the closest to the record just made. Mills are booked from five to six weeks ahead.

PRICES of sheets are firm. The weakness in quotations on galvanized sheets which prevailed a few weeks ago has disappeared. Original orders are being increased and rush shipments are often asked.

Tin plate production is at 85 per cent of capacity and this rate of output is expected to continue for the next two months. Considerable curiosity has been aroused in the trade over the new method of making tin plate in strips being tried by the Republic Iron and Steel Company. The entire Trumbull plant is to be devoted to tin plate production according to present plans. No large orders have been booked for the new type of tin plate although several sales of trial lots have been made.

THE wide strip mills which threatened to unsettle the sheet trade a few years ago have not come up to expectations. The American Rolling Mills Company still has much work to do in ironing out the troubles of the mill at Butler, which was bought from the Columbia Steel Company. A total of $3,000,000 is being spent to rehabilitate the plant which has been in operation only a year. This company has had good results from its wide strip mill at Ashland, which has been in production for several years. A good product has been secured with some reduction in costs. American Rolling Mill is building an additional mill of similar type.

Even the perfection of methods for making sheets by this continuous method will not displace the older types of sheet mills except in the narrower widths. The recent tendency has been towards the use of wider steel sheets than have been made in the past. This eliminates expensive welding operations. American Sheet and Tin Plate has a mill in operation which rolls 84-inch sheets and the American Rolling Mills Company is about to start the production of 90-inch sheets. The new continuous mills have maximum widths of 40 to 60 inches.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Reports of further gold purchases in London and a slight easing in the money situation failed to shake the bond market from its lethargy. Prices were firm in the early trading, but many of the recent convertible speculative favorites lost ground.

International Telephone convertible 4½s were the outstanding strong spot in the speculative list. American International 5½s and Alleghany Corporation 5s declined fractionally.

Rails were quiet, St. Paul adjustment 5s gaining fractionally. Utilities displayed a firm tone on light trading. Anglo Chilean Nitrate 7s improved in the inactive industrial group.

Foreign list was irregular, British United Kingdom 5½s advancing in face of heavy gold shipments to New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

PIG IRON SETS NEW MARK

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The Iron Age says: A January record in pig iron production, growing demand for automobile and railroad steel and increasing price strength in a number of mill products confirm the confidence of the iron and steel trade in a sustained rate of activity during the remainder of this quarter.

Pig iron production last month, according to statistics gathered by The Iron Age, totaled 3,442,370 tons, compared with 3,369,816 tons in December. Output was not only the greatest for any January, but was the largest, in terms of daily average, for any month since April, 1927.

Railroad buying has been featured by the placing of 3,500 freight cars. Since January 1 domestic roads have ordered over 18,000 freight cars.

Pressure for shipments of automobile steel is increasing as deliveries become more extended. Some mills cannot promise shipments of automobile body sheets and cold-rolled strip until late in April. Hot-rolled strip makers are booked ahead for four to six weeks, and bar mills are well committed.

An advance of $2 a ton on sheets for second quarter shipment is talked of as an early possibility.

Higher prices are also looked for in hot-rolled strip. Many producers are uninterested in new business at less than 2c a pound, Pittsburgh, or $2 a ton above the recent market.

Steel ingot output at Chicago has risen to 92 per cent of capacity, compared with 88 per cent a fortnight ago. Operations in greater Pittsburgh continue to average 85 per cent.

Heavy melting steel at Pittsburgh has dropped to $18.75, or $1 a ton below its peak of two weeks ago.

The Iron Age composite price for finished steel is unchanged at 2.291c a pound for the ninth successive week. The pig iron composite remains at $18.38 a ton.

BUGS BAER Says

NO PARKING HERE

ONE-WAY streets for pedestrians have been tried out in New York.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

The success is still an experiment.

The idea was figured out by an efficiency engineer taking a stroll in a telephone booth.

The business of controlling pedestrians by whistles was first tried out in Los Angeles.

The result was a barn dance without partners.

Pedestrians acted as if hither and thither were two well known spots on the map.

A one-way street is bad if you happen to get headed in the wrong direction.

You call up the wife and testify, "I am walking home."

You call up the next time from Trenton with the sub-title, "I am still walking home."

The traffic police picked up a man in a raccoon coat for double-timing in a restricted area. Nobody claimed him and he was sent to the public pound for lethal improvements.

Pedestrians will soon be required to wear three heels on each shoe. Low, high and reverse.

The one-way scheme was working fine last night.

Suddenly all traffic was stopped by a man with a red pimple on his nose.

The charge against this pedestrian was wearing his parking light in front.

Another contestant in the manly art of flat-footing was nailed by the law for not having dimmers on his spectacles within the city limits.

The worm may turn. But not while Commissioner Whalen is directing traffic.

Going up Broadway you must walk single file.

Always put the wife in front. Otherwise it will look as if she is chasing you.

The Street of Busted Hearts and Broken Arches is thronged with pedestrians who are sun-worshipers of traffic lights.

Once you get started on a one-way street you must keep on hoofing, looking neither to the right nor to the left, nor standing upon the order of your scuffling.

New York is one town in which Lot's wife would have her fenders bent and her lamps smashed. And she was nobody's sugar baby.

THE BUNGLE FAMILY — A Loud Subject

MOTHER, YOU JUST OUGHT TO BREAK YOURSELF OF ARGUING WITH DAD SO LOUDLY. THOSE RUBBERY FOLKS NEXTDOOR STOOD AT THEIR WINDOW FOR A SOLID HOUR LISTENING THIS EVENING.
OH I'M NOT WORRIED ABOUT NEIGHBORS. THIS ISN'T THE FIRST TIME THEY'VE HEARD YOUR BRILLIANT FATHER TALKING ABOUT MAKING MONEY GROW ON TREES, AND SUCH DIPPY IDEAS.
THAT MAN WAS SIMPLY MARKED WITH A WEAKNESS FOR GETTING IN WITH TALKATIVE STRANGERS WHO KNOW EVERYTHING, EXCEPT WHERE THEY'LL EAT AND SLEEP THAT NIGHT.
DAD IS AWAY TOO IMPRESSIONABLE.
HE ISN'T VERY IMPRESSIONABLE AROUND HERE. THE ONLY TIME HE'LL LISTEN TO ME IS WHEN HE WANTS TO KNOW WHY THE ELECTRIC LIGHT BILL LEAPED UP TWO OR THREE CENTS OVER LAST MONTH.
WELL I'LL ADMIT HE'S TOO AMBITIOUS, BUT IT REALLY LOOKS AS IF THERE SHOULD BE MONEY IN THAT FUR RAISING IDEA, LOOK WHAT A COAT COSTS!
PEGGY, MEN WHO BECOME MILLIONAIRES DON'T GET THEIR INSPIRATIONS FROM WANDERERS WHO HAVE TIME TO STAND FOR HOURS WATCHING A MAN PAINT A SMOKESTACK. OH I'VE BEEN THROUGH THIS SO OFTEN PEGGY THAT I KNOW EXACTLY.....
NOT SO LOUD MOTHER! THERE'S THOSE FOLKS LOOKING OVER HERE AGAIN. THE IDEA!

WEDDING BELLS

DEAR, WE'RE GOING TO HAVE SOMETHING DELICIOUS FOR SUPPER TONIGHT
YEAH?
WHAT IS IT?
ARTICHOKE COCKTAIL, CASSEROLE OF HAM AND HOMINY-ESCALLOPED POTATOES WITH CHEESE AND NESSELRODE PUDDING
MM-M-M-M I NEVER KNEW YOU COULD COOK ALL THEM THINGS
I CAN'T-
BUT WE CAN GO TO A RESTAURANT

ELLA CINDERS — Trying to Lose

HERE'S MORE OF MR. X'S STORY —
I WENT FROM ONE DEAL TO ANOTHER, ALWAYS PLAYING FOR BIG STAKES, ALWAYS WINNING, UNTIL WHEN STILL A VERY YOUNG MAN, I WAS A MILLIONAIRE — THEN I LEARNED THAT MONEY DID NOT BRING HAPPINESS —
ENOUGH MONEY IS A BLESSING, TOO MUCH IS A CURSE. I FOUND ITS LOAD OF RESPONSIBILITIES TOO HEAVY FOR THE SHOULDERS OF A YOUNG MAN WHO WANTED TO ENJOY LIFE — SO I DECIDED TO BECOME POOR AGAIN.
I TOOK MY FORTUNE TO THE TABLES OF ALL THE WORLD-FAMOUS GAMBLING CASINOS AND PLAYED RECKLESSLY — BUT MY PHENOMENAL LUCK HELD, AND I WON.....
THEN I TRIED STOCK SPECULATION, MAKING FANTASTIC, FOOLISH INVESTMENTS, LITERALLY THROWING MONEY AWAY — BUT THE TOUCH OF MIDAS REMAINED, AND IN TWO YEARS I INCREASED MY CAPITAL TEN-FOLD.....

Poor Mr. X! He just couldn't get poor! Aren't you sorry for him?

YES, SIR SIDNEY, I'M WELL SATISFIED WITH MY GOLF! I CAN CRACK NINETY ON THE ARDSLEY, ST. ANDREWS, OAKMONT, OLYMPIA FIELDS, AGUA CALIENTE OR ANY COURSE. BUT JEFF IS TERRIBLE! HE CAN'T CRACK A HUNDRED AND TWENTY! IN FACT, I'VE NEVER SEEN HIM MAKE ONE PAR IN ALL THE YEARS WE'VE PLAYED TOGETHER!
MY WORD!
SIR SIDNEY'S IN THE NEXT ROOM! HE KNOWS ALL ABOUT GOLF. I'LL ASK HIM!
SIR SIDNEY, I KNOW A HOLE MADE IN ONE LESS THAN PAR IS A 'BIRDIE,' AND I KNOW A HOLE MADE IN TWO UNDER PAR IS AN 'EAGLE,' BUT WHAT DO YOU CALL IT WHEN ONE MAKES A HOLE IN THREE UNDER PAR?
WHAT DO YOU WANT TO KNOW FOR?
MOST UNUSUAL, BAH JOVE!
WELL, I MADE A PAR THREE HOLE IN THREE UNDER PAR YESTERDAY AT HAMPTON-ROADS, AND I'M WRITING TO MOTHER AND I WANT TO TELL HER ABOUT IT! WHAT DO YOU CALL IT IN GOLFING LANGUAGE?
I'D CALL IT A FIB IN ANY LANGUAGE!

FRISBY WALKS 30 MINUTES; STILL GOING STRONG

WASHINGTON—For the first time in history, a non-stop pedestrian has been refueled successfully!

State Loses in Failure To Collect Gas Tax

While politicians are intent upon finding a way to get more in taxes from the automobile owner the state itself is losing more than $90,000 a year through failure to collect taxes the automobile owner supposedly has paid. The sum mentioned represents interest on $1,581,536.13 gasoline tax due from dealers.

Information of the amount due the state from delinquent dealers was given to the House of Representatives in response to a resolution requesting it. It is said to be indicative of an effort to make a gasoline tax collectable "at the source" from wholesalers.

Very likely a large proportion of this delinquency extends to consumers themselves, through the operation of credit extended by dealers to customers who pay their gas bills weekly or monthly. Whatever the cause, it should be remedied, since failure of the state to receive taxes in such a large sum represents a serious loss in the use of money. The state is not supposed to be a banking institution.

Giant and Dwarf Turtles

THE SMALLEST AND BIGGEST TURTLES

This interesting picture, useful to the thoughtful reader, is reproduced from the New York Zoological Society's Bulletin No. 1 by Morris Rosenfeld.

It shows the tiniest turtle in the Zoological Garden, a native of Albemarle Island, one of the Galapagos Islands, weighing 3¾ ounces. He is perched on the head of the Zoo's BIGGEST turtle, a giant from the Galapagos Islands, weighing 350 pounds and probably 300 years old.

Both turtles come from the same island group in the Pacific Ocean.

Giant turtles like the one in this picture once swarmed over all those islands, and gave their name to the islands. "Galapagos" means "turtle."

Unfortunately, sailors from many ships came to the islands, killed thousands of the turtles, some for fresh meat; more were killed simply for "sport." Then hunters from Ecuador came pursuing the turtles for their oil. And, worst of all, ships visiting the islands left on them cats, dogs, pigs, that multiplied, grew wild and destroyed much of the strange, interesting animal life. Only a few of the giant turtles now remain.

Fortunately, the United States Bureau of Fisheries interested itself; 180 of the big tortoises were caught in the mountains of one of the islands. Turtle breeding colonies have been established in Panama, Bermuda, San Diego, New Orleans.

And the race of giant turtles, thoughtful, slow, long lived, will not die out.

The interesting thing, and the moral for young and old, resides in the fact that the little turtle on the big turtle's head can see FARTHER than the big turtle can see.

Assuming that they both have equally good eyesight, the little turtle, in spite of his size, has wider vision than the big turtle, because he is higher up in the world, confirming the old statement, "A dwarf on a giant's shoulders sees farther than the giant can see."

Let us climb up as high as we can and see as far as we can, and then try to DO something.

What Would Frederick Say?

Not So Proud, Perhaps.

Germany applauds and criticizes the former Kaiser's book entitled "My Ancestors."

What kind of a book would Frederick the Great write if he could come back and write "My Descendants?"

Imagine Frederick the Great, with the army, navy, deadly weapons and scientific resources possessed by Germany in 1914. What he would have done, and how.

Wet Kansas

Dryer Before Prohibition.

Kansas, which was really quite dry before prohibition, is dry no longer. State and federal raiding squads directed by Gov. Reed, are wiping up "wet" spots everywhere.

Gov. Reed says, "we are having more trouble with enforcement than we had before prohibition became a national law." Very strange.

Tales That Are Told

Would You Believe It?

THE club bore was in his deadliest form. For two solid hours he had been boasting of his escapes from death while shooting in the jungle. At last he paused and gazed round the room.

"You fellows have never known experiences like those, have you?" he asked.

To his surprise one man nodded.

"I was once stranded in a forest with a gun and only one bullet," this member said.

"Really?" commented the bore. "And how did you manage to get away with your life?"

The other man smiled.

"While I was wondering whether I should starve or not," he said, "eight ducks flew past. I fired, and the bullet passed through all their heads. In falling the ducks hit the branch of a tree. This came down and caught a moose on the head. In its death throes the moose kicked a rabbit. This came sailing through the air and knocked me into the stream, and I came up with my pockets full of fish."

Nature Was Wrong

THE teacher was instructing the class in the composition of sentences. She wrote two sentences on the blackboard. One was, "The hen has three legs," and the other, "Who done it?"

"Now, Bobbie," she said, pointing to one of her small pupils, "come up here and show where the fault lies in these two sentences."

Bobby walked slowly up to the board, thinking hard. Then he picked up the chalk.

"Do you see what's wrong?" asked the teacher. He nodded.

"Very well, let me see you correct them."

With round, laborious strokes, Bobby made his correction.

"The hen never done it. Nature done it," he wrote.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE is a restaurant in Chicago that gets all the toughest steaks from the packing houses that ain't far away. It's a kind of an experiment station. The packers like to see how tough a steak can get and still be eaten by somebody, and the proprietor of the restaurant makes notes while his customers are trying to eat his steaks.

One night there was two well-known gangsters eating at this here restaurant. They ordered steaks, and the proprietor watched them through a peep-hole while they struggled with the meat, trying to cut it with the sharpest steak knives in the house. The gangsters took their coats off and got up on the table, in their battle with the steaks, but they couldn't get a mouthful of the stuff separated.

Finally one of the gangsters called the waiter and says, "Bring us half a dozen more of these steaks apiece, cooked just like this one."

So the proprietor come around to get information for the packers. "What's the big idea of the seven steaks apiece?" he says.

"Why," says one of the gangsters, "we've got a tough night ahead of us, and the other gang has got a couple more machine guns than we have. We just want something that's sure-enough bullet-proof to stuff inside of our chain vests. You can't depend on these chain manufacturers any more."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

SINCE I was old enough to sample the varnish on the kitchen chairs I have heard of the value of SYSTEM.

System was the Big Idea, the Royal Flush, the Vital Vitamine in the successful career—so they told me.

With System the world was mine—without it I might as well be a Paleozoic squid.

Which is all very true, provided you were born with a pigeon-hole mind and the disposition of a nicely oiled eggbeater.

I wasn't.

So, for the comfort of those who are similarly afflicted, I write this protest against our blind worship of System. I am well aware that it is against the spirit of the times and gives the lie to about 876,987,777,987 volumes of "How to Succeed." Nevertheless, be the consequences what they may, I am going to spill the beans.

System is a nice little help for a busy life, but it is only a help.

You can have all the system there is in the world, and, lacking other qualities, it won't get you anywhere.

A CARD FILE CAN BE SYSTEMATIC, BUT IT TAKES A LOT MORE THAN THAT TO LAND A HUMAN.

We make a great mistake when we teach our youngsters that promptness and regularity and order and similar mechanical virtues are the vital requirements in work.

We hold out false hopes when we tell them that if they are sufficiently systematic and industrious they will land in the millionaire class.

You can be as industrious as a pup with its first flea and still never amass a thousand dollars, still less a million.

Spunk has system backed off the map as a working virtue—

Initiative — imagination—they are the great assets—

An ability to stand punishment—

An eagerness to accept responsibility—

A flair for adventure—

These things should be encouraged in young people who are about to go out into life.

Use system as a tool—but only as a tool.

AN OUNCE OF ORIGINALITY IS WORTH A TON OF ORDER.

NO CRIME IN NATURE

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Do you believe there is any intelligence behind nature? If so, then why collisions among suns and planets and awful catastrophes in the heavens?—C. L. Wilcox, Benton Harbor, Mich."

COLLISIONS and catastrophies are not inconsistent with intelligence. All depends upon the point of view and the purpose. We are mere spectators of what goes on in the universe, and as such are insufficiently informed concerning the raison d'etre of catastrophes.

A catastrophe means, radically, a "turning down," i. e., the end of a particular state or condition. It is accompanied by the destruction of something as a consequence of which something else, another state or condition, comes on. In nature it is a convulsive change, and may be just as legitimate a part of the development of an intelligent plan as any less violent step toward a goal of progress.

The history of geology is full of catastrophic events. If sometimes what we call a calamity, i. e. an occurrence distressing to human beings, results from such an event, as for instance an earthquake or an avalanche, still it would be an immense assumption on our part to accuse the presiding intelligence of the universe of violating a law of its own being. We cannot define or limit such a law. We cannot call an earthquake "murder committed by divine intelligence," for we are preliminarily aware that nature is so made and so ordered that we must keep out of her way when a catastrophe impends.

We have a higher intelligence than any other inhabitants of the earth, and so far as that takes us we are able to avoid being caught in the maze of cosmical wheels.

But, like every other created thing, we are subject to the fundamental action of the universe, which admits no exemption from the consequences. Nature is absolutely impersonal.

As far as our knowledge goes, nothing that occurs in nature, whether on the earth or among the stars, is indictable in the sense of a crime. Calamities that we bring upon ourselves, knowing the danger of risk, are excluded by our contributory negligence. Disasters, like volcanic eruptions, or earthquakes, or floods, or invasions of disease, are not due to moral faults of the universal intelligence, but they resemble accidental killings in which no crime can be alleged.

We fight stoutly for freedom of thought and of will. This freedom is given to us; then can we turn about and load upon divine intelligence the faults of our own personal disposition? Can we accuse it, for example, of causing the World War and its horrors, when we were free to keep peace and cultivate brotherly kindness if we would? Men chose advantage rather than justice, and so turned the world as red as Mars with its own blood.

No, no, we can not inculpate an intelligence which infinitely exceeds ours, which has many universes to govern, by charging it with faults visible only to our limited power of comprehension. Deistic anthropomorphism, that is imagining God as made on the plan of man, is bad enough when it only concerns the question of our immediate relations to him, but it becomes absolute imbecility when it undertakes to construct and run the universe, or universes, according to human notions

Bible Passages

"Come, Ye Children"

(Psalm 34)

I WILL bless the Lord at all times; his praise shall continually be in my mouth.

My soul shall make her boast in the Lord: the humble shall hear thereof, and be glad.

O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together.

I sought the Lord, and he heard me, and delivered me from all my fears.

They looked unto him, and were lightened: and their faces were not ashamed.

This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him, and saved him out of all his troubles.

The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them.

O taste and see that the Lord is good: blessed is the man that trusteth in him.

O fear the Lord, ye his saints: for there is no want to them that fear him.

The young lions do lack, and suffer hunger: but they that seek the Lord shall not want any good thing.

Come, ye children, hearken unto me: I will teach you the fear of the Lord.

What man is he that desireth life, and loveth many days, that he may see good?

Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips from speaking guile.

Depart from evil, and do good: seek peace and pursue it.

The eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their cry.

The face of the Lord is against them that do evil, to cut off the remembrance of them from the earth.

The righteous cry and the Lord heareth, and delivereth them out of all their troubles.

The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart; and saveth such as be of a contrite spirit.

Many are the afflictions of the righteous: but the Lord delivereth him out of them all.

He keepeth all his bones: not one of them is broken.

Evil shall slay the wicked: and they that hate the righteous shall be desolate.

The Lord redeemeth the soul of his servants; and none of them that trust in him shall be desolate.

Be Not Too Wise

LOOK back sometimes, lest you should grow
Too wise for things you used to know,
When twilight shadows are unfurled
Across a pallid, wintry world,
Look back to welcome once again
Bright hours, untouched by care or pain;
Bright hours before a cynic doubt
Had put one joyous faith to rout.
Keep them within your heart enshrined.
Loves wholly pure, friends wholly kind,
And cherish all the simple things
Which only childhood's magic brings.
As tinted glass can lend fair hues
To somber shapes, so though imbues
With glow of early memories
Life's later scenes. Be not too wise!

It's Never Too Late

YOU can't behold the butterfly in the caterpillar, nor judge the frog from the tadpole.

The blossom's fragrance never foretells the fruit's taste.

And the method hasn't been devised to detect a champion game-cock through the egg-shell.

Boys are reputedly the fathers of men. A nice sounding phrase—but seldom verified by human experience.

Few child wonders have even grown to world thunders.

Check back to schooldays and figure how many model pupils and letter-perfect lesson-crammers are now making marks or money.

If Caesar was a young prodigy, biography hasn't revealed it. Napoleon's long shadow didn't begin to cast itself in boyhood.

Puerile genius seldom survives adolescence. It's usually a short-lived quality.

The bud that pushes ahead of schedule soon gets frost nipped. Sincere talents mature slowly and arduously.

Oliver Goldsmith was a very late ripener. He wasted his patrimony, cut college lectures, achieved distinction in all departments of dissipation, tramped the roads as a flute player; and at his appointed hour turned to literature and wrote his name in star dust.

Wellington wasn't regarded as very bright at the outset. He displayed little initial ability and surprised no one more than his own folks when he struck his pace.

Watteau didn't succeed in attracting recognition until he was an old man.

And the first J. P. Morgan, true to a family trait, evinced no especial capacity before fifty.

Robert Burns led a riotous life, lost his inheritance, floundered in the flowing bowl and wound up in a niche of fame.

The elder Gladstone had a very poor opinion of Britain's future premier. He doubted if his son would ever amount to a hill of beans.

President Hindenburg was shelved as a back number and headed for the military bone-pile, along with his cracked notions about the Masurian marshes, when emergency yanked him from semi-retirement, stuck a field marshal's baton in his fist and offered a belated chance to show goods.

"It's never too late to mend" or win.

Sir William Goode, Hoover's successor in Allied relief work, chief of Austrian reparations, and the economic savior of Hungary, was a drifting gray-head and ne'er-do-well in 1914.

O. O. McINTYRE

LONDON, Feb. 6.—London street names are phantoms of the dim past—mute criers of long ago. From them it is possible to reconstruct the history of the city. They hark back to imperial ermine, bleak moorlands, public markets, changing fashions and courtly romance.

Among those I jotted down on the back of an envelope while exploring the town today were: Magpie Alley, Turn Again Lane, Hanging Sword Court, Friday Street, Peter Noster Row, Pudding Lane, Birdcage Walk, Amen Corner, Bride Lane, Lover's Nook and Temple Bar.

But the name of my favorite boulevard cannot be printed. It is an ah-ah word on our side of the creek. A colorful street, too, is Threadneedle. At one end are rows of pubs and coffee stalls where the cab drivers of London gather to sip ale and give each other "the bird."

London cab drivers are a close-knit fraternity, but their leisure is spent abusing one another. "Chaff" they call it. I hailed a Jolly Roger for a short spin this morning to a steamship office, and on the way his cab was brushed by another.

The air turned blue. When paying the fare I remarked: "You were pretty rough on him, weren't you?" His leather face slowly puckered into a wrinkling grin. "E don't mind, sir," he explained, "E's my cousin." There are innumerable cabbies who might have posed for those beaming ruddy-as-beef John Bull caricatures.

The congeniality of the cabman is not, however, a criterion of the so-called servant class. Most servants are human icebergs. Just when you think they are humbly obsiant they suddenly disarm you with a dignified stiffness. To the American, they appear passionless automatons.

Englishmen often admit they are never able to shake off the notion most servants have a secret contempt for employers. There is something of the acid tang about their apparently meek "Very good sir!" But they are diplomats and give a sufficient hint of warmth at the proper time to avoid the sack.

In Romano's, for instance, for breakfast a waiter bowed gravely and sadly when I complained of his snatching the menu away twice. But I heard him say softly to one of his fellows: "The blighter wants to show me he can read."

* * *

London offers the best as well as the worst dressed men. The old coves with walrus mustaches and hearty garumphs are sartorial horrors in their muckle dun and poisonous green vests, huge puff ties, off color spats and big checkered trousers. But the young blood is a red hot fashion plate, the style pacemaker for men all over the world. New York ladies, en passant, are far better dressed than those of London and astonishingly better looking.

* * *

The Britisher is especially adept in evening clothes. Before you finish a cigaret he can slip into a dinner jacket or full evening dress. Years of practice made him proficient. After coming home from the office, having his tub, every well-bred Englishman "dresses for dinner," even though dining alone. He knows how to wear a silk topper at a jaunty angle, carries his walking stick with distinction, and there is a flair to the shoulder throw of his Inverness cape, and even his bow tie ends somehow achieve a striking smartness. And if one does not believe there is an art in tucking a handkerchief in the breast pocket, he should inspect a London toff.

The newest note in full evening dress is encompassed in the weskit. To call it a vest is just as rowdy as calling braces suspenders. The new weskit—and like most of the new styles was designed for the Prince of Wales and popularized once he wears them—is single breasted and, in contrast to the sawed-off weskit of a few years ago, has deep and sweeping long-pointed ends. It is fitted corset-like around the waist, making the points flare out somewhat in the fashion of the wings on Lew Dockstader's old-time minstrel collar.

The worst dressed Londoner is the best known man about town. His name is Hannen Swaffer known where Picadilly chandeliers blaze brightest as "Swaff." He is hated and feared by many theatrical people on account of his critical roasts. The nattiest dresser naturally is Wales. Just now he features silk shirts with collar to match of dove gray. Who brought up the subject of clothes, anyway?

IS IT fear of ridicule that keeps you from advancing some ideas different from any you have heard or read?

You wish that you might be in a position to present your unusual opinions without risking the loss of your job.

If you were well enough fortified with money to live without your job you might not have to care so much what others think of you.

But why should you hesitate, as long as what you have to present is not in opposition to the well-founded principles of government and society?

The world needs new ideas.

The thoughts that come to you might be of great use to humanity.

They might start a line of thinking and experiment from which something valuable might come.

But because your educational advantages have been limited you hesitate.

You fear ridicule.

Don't be held back from presenting sensible, sane propositions because of fear of censure.

Those who originally presented most of the worthwhile suggestions were ridiculed at first; later their ideas considered and embraced.
